Yes, Mr. Shaw, We're Learning.

A Smart Young Girl.

Mr. Steuer, et al, Go Flying.

To Him That Hath.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW tells the world that Russia is "the most and most enlightened experiment in the world."

H. G. Wells, who knows more about the real world than Shaw has ever known, even when he was young and doubted his infallibility, says Russia may not get on her feet.

"Because she has produced a body of managers, no body of educated men, free, able and willing to work together.

"An ego-centered autocrat with a political party disciplined to death, a press bureau and secret police is no substitute for that."

RUSSIA IMPORTS her managers from America and Germany, but that does not mean that she will never produce her own.

Shaw says an American master in Russia "would have much chance of survival as a rat in a yard full of terriers." Mr. Shaw does not know the American gangster.

MR. SHAW observes that America kills you for committing murder and praises you for making money; that in Russia they kill you for making money and put you in jail four or five years for committing murder. If that's so, the Russians would kill Shaw. He makes lots of money.

SHAW SAYS Americans should face "the stupendous possibility that the United States may have something edifying to learn from Russia."

Possibly America could learn something from Timbuctoo, as the hare learned something about racing from the tortoise.

AT PRESENT the whole world is busy learning. Russia is learning from Americans how to organize industry, and American industry and finance are learning from their own mistakes how to avoid similar mistakes in future.

When Russia has a group of hundred-time millionaires and an occasional billionaire, like ours, money will go to their heads as it went recently to the heads of our big men and small stock gamblers.

That "monarchies are destroyed by poverty and republics by wealth," is as true now as when Prudhomme said it.

SHAW REMARKS that he has "cited enough to make even the most absurd American (and Americans are the most absurd people at present on earth) remember ... that those who live in glass houses should not throw stones!"

SHAW HAS NOT said enough to convince anybody that human nature and the history of mankind can be abruptly changed by any mixture of German communism and Muscovite communism.

DRINK A TOAST if only in soda pop, to Miss Charlotte Hodgkinson, 19 years old, who took flying lessons for 76 minutes, then flew by herself, and did it well.

It would almost cure your "depression blues" to see that young American girl waving her arms from the cockpit.

Even birds do not learn to fly as quickly as that, although they begin much younger.

FLYING PROGRESSES steadily. Hourly flights from New York to the Newark field and on to points west and south have been inaugurated. The young lady mentioned above proves how easy it is to learn to fly if you have a well-balanced brain. And busy men actually use airplanes.

ON SUNDAY, for instances, in a Sirius Lockheed single motor plane, such as Lindbergh uses, Walter Blumenthal, of Hallgarten & Co., flew down from the Adirondacks to Curtiss Field in New York, with an interesting load, flying over New York at night, doing the 270 miles in two hours.

Walter Blumenthal, who piloted the ship, is a banker. One of his passengers was Bernard F. Gimbel, department store owner, the other passenger was Max D. Steuer, who proved recently that you can convict a banker in New York.

And, most interesting, to the student of eugenics, is the fact that the professional pilot, a young man of 20, who took his turn at the controls, was Russell Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and Harry Thaw, both well known to reporters.

"To him that hath shall be given."

The late, generous Payne Whitney, now in Heaven, where the Bible was written, can tell them that his case proves the truth of that text.

Mr. Whitney left a large estate, which paid inheritance taxes of more than $17,000,000, leaving more than $200,000,000 for distribution.

Since that time the value of the estate has increased by more than $52,000,000, and on that increase, the estate pays no taxes since taxes are based on values at the time of death.

MR. WHITNEY left his wife more than $67,000,000, the largest of his bequests. For that he deserves credit.

To the New York Hospital Society, he gave more than $21,000,000; to the New York Public Library more than $000,000; more than $3,000,000 ch to Yale and Cornell.

THE PAYNE WHITNEY estate is said to be the biggest ever appraised in New York. There have been bigger American fortunes, however, but in some cases much of the fortune

'BLUEBEARD' TO FIGHT FOR LIFE

Prosecution Will Start in November; Powers Linked To Capital Girl's Death

Staff Correspondent

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1. While Clarksburg authorities today endeavored to link Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, alleged love racket killer, with the brutal murder of pretty Mary Baker, Navy department stenographer, more than a year ago, County Prosecutor Will E. Morris announced no special grand jury would be called to arraign Powers.

The date was tentatively set for November 10.

County Prosecutor Morris said today he expected Powers to enter a plea of not guilty.

SEARCH RESUMED

Search of the Quiet Dell love farm, where five bodies were found Saturday, was resumed today with half a dozen members of a convict road gang drilling through the rocky bottom of a cistern near the ramshackle garage of the pudgy wooer of the nation's lonely women. The cistern was drained yesterday.

A strange apparatus, which it is said reacts violently in the presence of dead bodies, was taken to the Quiet Dell death rendezvous shortly before noon to aid in the search.

The instrument, which Dr. Jerome Wisniewski, of Clarksburg, claims is primarily for use in medical treatment, was tested over the bodies of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, her three children, and Mrs. Dorothy Lemke.

Boy Drowns, 3 Rescued In River

One boy was drowned, while two others and the father of one narrowly escaped a similar fate when their sailboat capsized in the Monongahela River off First street, Braddock, this afternoon.

The dead boy is Robert Schweinberg, 16, of 1009 Kirkpatrick street, North Braddock.

Frantic efforts of an inhalator crew for an hour and a half failed to revive him. His father, Albert Schweinberg, labored vainly for another half hour.

Witnesses said a gust of wind apparently upset the boat, throwing Schweinberg and Timothy O'Shea, 21, of 425 Mills avenue, Braddock, into the river. O'Shea was rescued by a barge crew.

O'Shea's father, John, 58, and Cecil Holdel, 23, owner of the boat who made his home with the Schweinbergs, clung to the overturned craft until rescued.

Buddy Kinkead Dies In East, Auto Victim

Clifford G. (Buddy) Kinkead, 24, of 616 Summerlea street, a trumpet player, well known in orchestra circles of Pittsburgh, was struck and killed by an automobile, last night, in Woodbury, N. J., according to word received by his relatives today. He was conducting an orchestra at Summers Point, N. J. He was born in Pittsburgh and lived here practically all his life. He leaves his wife.

James McAllister, of Ocean City, N. J., driver of the car, was taken to Glouchester County Jail, held without bail by Police Recorder Curtis, of Woodbury.

LOCAL GOLFERS ELIMINATED

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Watts Gunn, of the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, who was defeated by Bobby Jones in the final of the 1925 championship, played at Oakmont, was definitely eliminated from the 1931 National Amateur golf tournament here today. Gunn went out in 42 today, and then used up 10 strokes on the eleventh hole to put himself out of the running. I. W. Danforth, another Oakmont star, withdrew today.

Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, former Western Amateur and Big Ten titleholder, jumped into the lead this afternoon by producing the first par-cracking score of the tourney, 36-34—70, one under Beverly's perfect figures. It gave him a 36-hole total of 148.

Jack Westland, of Chicago who was setting the pace with a 72 at the finish of the first round yesterday, was a late starter today.

Early starters today played in a drenching rain.

Mrs. Hoover's Guard Secret Bridegroom

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The marriage of Mrs. Herbert Hoover's secret service guard, Grady L. Boatwright, became known belatedly today at the White House.

Boatwright, who usually precedes the President's wife on her trips out of Washington, took advantage of the usual week-end trop of the President's party to marry Miss Mabel Craven, of Sutton, W. Va., last Friday. Not even his fellow members of the White House secret detail learned of the ceremony until today.

Accused Policeman Tells of Warning to Doctor in Fatality

Patrolman Harvey O. Buch testified at the inquest today into the death of Lazo Radakobisch, 42, of 2164 Straub's lane, that he had told a physician in Allegheny General Hospital the man was in no condition to leave the institution after he had been found lying on the street.

Radakobisch died August 25, the day after he had been found unconscious in Sunderman street near No. 51 engine house. Officials of the hospital blamed police for the injury which the man suffered, declaring there was no evidence of a fractured skull when he was first brought to the hospital.

TELLS OF WARNING

Patrolman Buch, of an emergency wagon, which took Radakobisch to the hospital, testified:

"I cautioned Dr. John Lewis, who attended the man, that he was in no condition to leave the hospital. I don't know whether he heard me. The doctor said: 'Take him out. He'll be all right as soon as he sobers up.'

Buch testified the man was placed "gently" in the emergency wagon again and taken to North Side Station, where he was placed in No. 1 cell for observation. When he became worse he was returned to the hospital.

Radakobisch was able to tell his age, name and that he was born in Hungary both at the hospital and at the police station. He fell to the floor twice during treatment at the hospital, the officer testified, which led him to warn the physician not to permit him to leave the hospital. He saw blood on his head and noticed that one side of his face was swollen, he said.

TELL OF INJURY

Dr. J. W. McMeans, coroner's physician, testified to conducting an autopsy and finding an involved skull fracture six inches long at the top of his head reaching to within an inch and a half of his left eye.

Coroner W. J. McGregor asked:

"Was the injury quite evident?"

Dr. McMeans replied:

"It was so marked I think it would be apparent to anyone."

Questioned by Assistant City Solicitor Charles Lang, McMeans testified he had not seen the body until two days after the man had suffered the injury and could not state whether the injury was as evident at the time as following his death.

Several witnesses testified to seeing Radakobisch on the street, of helping to carry him into the engine house and later seeing police take him away. The police handled the man carefully, they said. There was no evidence of serious injury at that time, they testified.

School Fire Traps Here Peril Pupils, Chief Smith Says

Danger Is Denied by Graham; Holds All Buildings Safe

As hundreds of schools opened throughout the city today, Fire Chief Richard L. Smith declared that many of them, housing thousands of children, are fire traps.

His conclusions are drawn from the reports of his inspectors obtained in a preliminary survey following the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for Aged disaster. Chief Smith says he will recommend compulsory installation of sprinkler systems as the best quick remedy for the situation.

When told of Chief Smith's charge, Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, said:

"We have no fire traps. So far as our schools are concerned we have a clean bill of health. Some of our buildings are old, but they have ample equipment."

Obsolete buildings coupled with lack of fire extinguishers and sprinkler systems create a menace to lives, Fire Chief Smith said:

"The reports are still coming into my office from inspectors. It will probably be a few days before I have the recommendations tabulated so something tangible can come out of the reports. However, I haven't had time yet to single out any specific instances, but hope to discover some when I complete reading what my men have brought in. The same situation exists in every city in the United States. I have ascertained this both from personal observation and reports from fire bureau officials in many cities.

"Buildings are obsolete in many instances. Fire escapes are in bad shape."

Chief Smith said he intended recommending legislation to City Council to force installation of sprinkler systems in all the school buildings throughout the city at "a very early date."

He declared:

"Sprinkler systems are about the best prevention against fires yet devised. Their cost is small compared with the number of lives they save."

Tomorrow Is Last Day for Voters' Assessment

With tomorrow the last day to be assessed to qualify to vote at the primary and general elections, thousands of persons will jam the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes office in the last minute rush.

Pittsburghers will have their first chance to register Thursday when registrars will sit at the polling places from 8 to 11 o'clock in the morning and from 5 to 11 o'clock at night, daylight saving time.

Register assessors are sitting today and tomorrow in the boroughs and townships. This is the last opportunity voters outside the city will have to qualify for the November election.

In Pittsburgh there are two more registration days, September 8 and 12.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, indicted with Betram L. Succop, former city director of supplies, for alleged irregularities in the Department of Supplies purchases, will be tried "some time between Monday and the Christmas holidays," according to District Attorney Andrew T. Park today.

R. L. Phillips, one of Park's assistants, said:

"Jail cases take precedence over all others, even Mayor Kline's, and we have much of them to run us until September 23."

Phillips also pointed out that there are 1,800 new cases, the summer's accumulation, going before the grand jury starting Monday and from these, he said, will develop another large number of jail cases.

A "jail case" is one in which the defendant is held in jail pending trial, either in default or denial of bail.

Landis' Trousers Stolen, Judge Prisoner in Room

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—(INS.)—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, whose flaring shock of white hair has topped a face serene amidst the tribulations of disputes involving baseball players, lost his equanimity and his pants at the same time today.

During a long wait, it seemed that the Judge would be forced to spend a dull day within the confines of his Commonwealth avenue hotel apartment. A thief stole the Judge's trousers from Fritz Springer, the judicial tailor, to whom they had been sent for sponging and pressing.

Some fast sprinting on the part of Springer, and the thief was caught, but not before pants, thief and tailor had merged in a very muddy puddle.

The offending moisture and grime being removed by Springer, the pants were returned to their owner several hours later, clean and spotless.

U. S. JOB CHIEF QUITS IN ROW WITH DOAK; PROBE LIKELY

Charges Futile, Fantastic Employment Programs; Congress Quiz Indicated

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — Congressional investigation of conduct of the United States Employment Service has thrown a sensational airing of the kettle of fish that has hampered the work of putting jobless men in contact with jobs, assistant to be the likely outcome of Pierce J. Jones' resignation as director general of the service.

Jones' resignation, in protest against the whole policy of the service, followed the refusal of Secretary of Labor William N. Doak to accept the resignation of Jones' chief lieutenant, Edgar Gardner, who had manifested great interest in the recent service situation. It is believed certain that there will be a sharp investigation of the whole matter once congress gets back to work.

Senator David A. Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate committee on labor, and Senator Wagner, Democrat, of New York, author of the bill which would have established a national employment service and a federal system of unemployment insurance, are expected to lead the investigation.

Under the present system, a special effort was made to find employment for ex-service men among whom there is widespread unemployment. J. C. Babcock, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, estimated today there are more than 6,000 partly disabled veterans in need of employment, to say nothing of the thousands of men not disabled.

DOAK OBJECTIONS

According to Jones, Secretary Doak objected to the service paperwork, attention to the veterans and insisted upon something being done for trainmen and other organized labor. Doak, former chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Jones said, pointed out that trainmen and organized labor generally cared for their own.

Doak insisted, however, according to Jones, that the service discontinue its veteran specialization, and this and other factors led to Jones' retirement.

With unemployment appearing widespread this winter and likely to be an important factor in the next campaign, it is considered certain that there will be a thorough airing of the whole matter once congress gets back to work.

TAX RATE STAYS DESPITE HUGE DEFICIT

Depression and Effect on 1932 Elections Swing Treasury to Bond Issues

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — Despite the shock of a two-billion dollar deficit in the treasury—a billion last year and another billion estimated for the current year—the administration is going to oppose any extensive tinkering with the general tax structure at the approaching session of Congress.

The bond issue of $1,100,000,000 announced Monday by the treasury will carry the government along and permit income and corporation taxes to remain at their present rates for another year.

Administration leaders, among them Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, are agreed that it would be bad business and bad politics to increase income taxes in a time of business depression and upon the eve of a national election next year.

INCREASE INEVITABLE

The new bond issue comes on top of the issues of last March and June. The March issue was $500,000,000 and the June issue was $800,000,000, making a grand total of $2,400,000,000 which the Treasury has issued in the past six months. Both the earlier issues were greatly oversubscribed and confidence is felt at the Treasury that the current offering will be snapped up, too, despite the low interest rate of 3 per cent.

Eventually it is recognized that unless there is a decided pick-up in business, taxes will have to be increased. But the present policy of the administration is to put off that dark day as long as possible, certainly beyond next year's election.

The past six months of treasury financing is recognized as a "stop gap" method of avoiding a tax increase. No one considers least of all Secretary Mellon, that it can be continued indefinitely. Increased revenue must be forthcoming from the present rates or these rates must be increased. The alternative is to find new and hitherto untapped sources, which is not an easy task.

STUDY NEW SOURCES

Nothwithstanding the administration's policy, there will be an insistent clamor in the new Congress for increasing income taxes in the upper brackets. Progressive Republicans and a considerable number of Democrats feel that inasmuch as the wealthy benefited most by the successive tax reductions in the years of Treasury surpluses, the wealthy should now re-shoulder some of the burden in the days of deficits.

For some time treasury experts have been conducting a widespread survey of new sources of revenue. Secretary Mellon has devoted considerable thought to the possibilities of a national gasoline tax. Some thought has been given, too, to increasing the cigaret and tobacco taxes.

PINCHOT URGES FARMS, LABOR RULE U. S.

Link Means Control, Governor Tells Growers; Sees Both Cheated by 'Unclean Money'

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 1 (AP.)—Assailing the Federal Farm Board as "that huge and costly lemon," Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, said in an address here today that the "welfare of America depends upon justice to the American farmer. Justice as the farmer himself understands justice and not some alleged panacea devised by men who neither know his problems nor comprehend his point of view."

Addressing the annual convention of the Missouri Farmers' Association, Gov. Pinchot urged the farm industry be placed on a basis of economic equality with other industries. He said the farmer, "for years the orphan of American politics, should be taken into the family and have a voice as to what type of relief should be attempted."

AGAIN DEMANDS SESSION

Gov. Pinchot renewed his demand for an extra session of Congress which he recently asked President Hoover to call to meet the unemployment situation. He asked:

"If an extra session is needed to relieve one kind of distress in the cities, why is it not equally needed to relieve another kind of distress in the open country? The time the farmers need help is now.

"How on earth the federal government can listen and respond to the call of the needy in foreign lands, as it should, and then shut its ears to the same call at home, is beyond my understanding. If that is not discrimination, I do not know the meaning of the word.

"More than anything else in this country we need to put the interest of the plain people first. The purpose of the American political system is not unclean moneys but free men.

UNCLEAN MONEY RULE

"But unclean money has come to the front—money gouged from the people by excessive and unfair rates for electricity, gas, water and transportation by pyramided stock and grasping holding companies, by write-ups and a million other shady tricks.

"Our people know that unclean money sits in the seats of the mighty. They know they are not getting a square deal. Therefore they are like a hive of bees, full of agitation before taking flight. And when bees leave the hive, on what branch they will swarm no one can foretell.

"Labor and the farmer are cheated by the same people, despised by the same people, exploited by the same people. The people who will stand in the way of real help for the farmer are the same people who are blocking the way of real help for the unemployed. Yet too often labor and the farmer let these same people run their politics for them.

"Nothing could do this country so much good as for the farmer and labor to work together for the welfare of both. They would control the nation.

SCORES RAILROADS

"Could any power in America prevent the farmers from getting the Equalization Fee or the Debenture Plan, and getting it quick, if labor organizations and farm organizations stood together in demanding it? Could any power in America prevent labor from getting a good anti-injunction law from Congress if the farmers joined with labor in insisting upon it? If ever the two work together, neither money nor privilege, neither financial concentration nor political conspiracy, will be able to stand in their way.

The Pennsylvania governor, discussed as a possible candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year, criticized the railroads for seeking to increase freight rates at a time when the farmer "already is overburdened." The cost of distribution of farm products, he said, is twice as high now as it was before the World War. He continued:

"There are too many middle profits between producer and consumer. The middleman regularly pays the farmer too little and charges the consumer too much. And he does it on the wartime basis, when wheat was selling five times and more per bushel than it has been sold this year.

600 ON STRIKE AT M'KINNEY'S

Between 600 and 700 employes of the McKinney Manufacturing Company, Liverpool and Metropolitan street, struck at noon today, the men reported. Spokesmen for the workmen said the men struck against unfair working conditions introduced by a new efficiency manager. The company would make no statement.

Following the strike, foremen of the plant held a meeting in the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, Chateau and Sheffield street, while many of the strikers milled around the building.

It is said the plant employs about 1,000 when running normally but the force has been reduced owing to business conditions.

Today

has been given away before the death of the owner.

John D. Rockefeller, for instance, has given away more than $500,000,000 to public philanthropies. If he had kept all the money he ever had he would, to use the comparison of the late J. Ogden Armour, make Mr. Whitney look like a gypsy.

AUTOMOBILE MAKERS will learn with pleasure, that Mr. Whitney left 29 automobiles worth over $25,000. They cost more than that.

THE NATIONAL state, city, county and township governments look around and find new things to tax. They should, if the taxation is just, for they need the money.

Chicago finds 46 corporations operating privately-owned cars worth more than $84,000,000. Tax on those cars will help pay school teachers.

PRESIDENT MR. HOOVER, to avoid extra taxation that would be doubly discouraging in this depression, will have the government borrow about $1,000,000,000. That is a small part of our national expenses, but it will help.

Not so long ago this country was horrified to learn that the government expected to spend $1,000,000,000 in two years.

Mr. Mellon will be able to borrow the billion needed on bonds running over a period of 20 years at 3 per cent.

WHEN EUROPE and especially the British hear that they will say: "Alas and alack." There was a time when British "controls" sold on a basis of 2 per cent and less.

ZEP NEAR GOAL; BUCKS WIND

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Sept. 1 (INS.)—Bucking severe headwinds the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was nearing the end of its long flight across the South Atlantic today.

Communicating direct with the Olinda wireless station here, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, advised that the big ship would reach Pernambuco about 4 p. m. (3 p. m., eastern daylight time).

The second visit of the Graf to this city has aroused as much interest as the first. Thousands of German and Brazilian flags were flung out as news of the Zeppelin's approach spread and crowds from surrounding towns began to pour into Pernambuco to welcome it. Airport officials have made special arrangements to handle the throng.

Weather permitting the Graf will turn its nose homeward Thursday. Two more flights from Germany to this city have been announced by Dr. Eckener, and Pernambuco was hopeful today that a regular trans-Atlantic Zeppelin schedule would soon be established with the city as the South American terminus.

Parachute Jump Saves Army Flier

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1 (AP.)—Lieut. Thayer Olds saved himself from injury when his Army plane crashed several miles north of the Cleveland airport today by a parachute jump from a 500-foot altitude. He landed in Lake Erie and was able to wade ashore unassisted.

New Bomb Designed, Presented to Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP.)—Plans for a small incendiary bomb designed to pierce armament have been presented to the Army ordnance department by John W. Currell, who gave the United States the aerial explosive bomb now in use.

Currell, a mechanic who served in the Marines and Navy, also invented the tracer projectile and other devices.

Youth Shot in Hand; Police Investigate

Suffering from a bullet wound in his left hand, Nick Mellick, 20, of 1314 Webster avenue, walked to Mercy Hospital today for treatment.

He told hospital attaches he had been shot while walking at Elm street and Bedford avenue. Police are investigating.

TROOPS ASKED TO GUARD POLLS

Treasurer is then entitled to act upon them.

CONFUSION

While Judge Gray did not pass upon the question of whether the thousands of tax receipts already issued from the additional assessment books are legal, it is believed that certification by the assessment board will permit voting.

The opinion covers the madamus proceedings by the Bar Association committee to compel the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes to certify all extra lists to the County Treasurer that all might be readily scanned.

Christy's announcement caused confusion in his office as many had been assessed since the dispute arose and appeared today to pay their delinquent poll tax, 53 cents.

The Tax Board continued to assess all persons making affidavit as to residence. The throng was so great, desks were placed in the corridor of the court house and 152 district assessors as well as 50 extra clerks assigned to handle the rush.

131,000 LISTED

Yesterday's hearing developed that the 50-cent poll tax for 131,000 persons had been paid at the County Treasurer's office as a step to qualify for voting at the primaries. Of this number, 32,000 receipts were issued to 831 persons, presumably agents of political organizations who presented signed orders.

George H. Schad, chairman of the Tax Board, testified that a total of between 6,000 and 7,000 additional assessments had been made since the lists were made up by district assessors in a house-to-house canvass.

Schad said he did not know how a check could be made of all those who made affidavits as to residence and had had their names entered on the assessment books.

TROOPS ASKED CHURCHES RAP TO GUARD POLLS MONEY DIVISION

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP.)—The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, in a call to prayer next Sunday for the jobless, published today, criticises the distribution of wealth. The call says:

"That there are grave imperfections in an economic order which makes possible the stark contrast of vast fortunes and breadlines is obvious. Society must turn its attention increasingly to the unsoundness of the present distribution of the national income and to the control of the money-making spirit which lies behind it."

The message was issued under the signature of Bishop Francis J. McConnell, formerly of Pittsburgh.

Breadlines are described as "a serious indictment of our economic organization, both as to its efficiency and its moral character."

ATTORNEY GETS CANNON FACTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP.)—District Attorney Rover today requested and received from the Senate Campaign Funds Committee the record of the hearings on the use of campaign money by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in 1928.

Chairman Nye, of the Senate Committee, in a letter accompanying the record of the investigation volunteered any additional information required by the District Attorney.

Rover gave no information whether he would go before the grand jury with the case. Senator Nye has referred to the transaction of Bishop Cannon in handling anti-Smith campaign funds of 1928 as amounting to "diversion."

Two associates of the Southern Methodist churchman in directing the anti-Smith Democratic drive refused to testify before the committee last week—Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, treasurer, and J. Sidney Peters, of Newport News, Va., secretary.

'Mushrooms' Poisonous; 8 Ill

...man, his wife and six children were taken to Pittsburgh Mercy hospital early today suffering from the effects of eating what is believed to be mushrooms for their home last night. They became ill a few hours after eating the fungus and were taken to the hospital by a physician.

They were Michael Lauletta, 45, and his wife, Lena, 42, and four children: Katherine, 15; Clarence, 13; Emma, 10, and Clarence, 8, and Nick Daskono, 14, of 5 Louis Platine, 16, all of 1100 Heeler street. All were later released, except Katherine Lauletta. Her condition is fair.

Lauletta told hospital authorities that yesterday afternoon he and his wife were in the country and picked the supposed mushrooms in a field. They ate them at 6 p. m. and at midnight became ill. It is believed they mistook toadstools for mushrooms.

...est Fire Battle ...eaths Mount to 14

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 1 (AP.)—With 14 men dead and an army of 3,200 in the field, Montana, Northern Idaho and Eastern Washington today carried on battle against forest fires.

Helm, Minneapolis fireman, to die, was killed yesterday when a burning tree fell on him.

Gov. ... declared martial law in four counties after forest officials explained they had sent men hastily being recruited and set new places to provide employment.

New Police Boat Used In Search for Body

Pittsburgh's new police boat was brought into action for the first time shortly after 3 a. m. today when River Patrolman Charles Snyder began dragging the Monongahela River at the Tenth street Bridge for the body of Walter Humphy, 35, a Negro, of 1426 Hanlon street. Humphy, an employee of the Vang Construction Company, fell from a barge while climbing from the top of a mixer and drowned.

Digs Up Skeleton While Spading Yard

A skeleton of an adult human being was dug up yesterday by William Bauer, who was excavating in the front yard of his home in Ridge avenue, Wilkins Township. The condition of the bones indicated the body had been buried many years. Deputy coroners expressed belief the Bauer property was a burial ground.

Italians Arrange Independent Drive

Italian-American supporters of the Independent Republican ticket met in the Independent headquarters, Fourth avenue, last night to make their plans for the final weeks of the campaign. Dr. F. C. Ferrante presided. Speakers included Donald Mangone, Charles G. Coccia, Andrew Jeannett, Peter Day and Vito Andiorio.

Braddock G. O. P. Club Will Meet

The Braddock Republican Club will hold a meeting in Latou Hall, Fourth street and Braddock avenue, Braddock, tonight. State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, and District Attorney Andrew T. Park, seeking re-election, will be among the speakers.

Fugitive Monessen Cashier Captured in Congo

MONESSEN, Pa., Sept. 1.—Officials of the First National Bank of Monessen have received word from Department of Justice agents that John Mannos, indicted cashier of the former Citizens National, had been apprehended in Belgian Congo.

Mannos is under indictment in Federal Court at Pittsburgh, charged with embezzling about $30,000 of the funds of the Citizens Bank, which was later taken over by the First National. Mannos was said to have fled to Greece last December.

United States Marshall James C. McGregor said he had a warrant for Mannos' arrest, but that he had received no word of his capture.

Sir Hall Caine, Wealthiest Writer, Dies at 78

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Sept. 1 (AP.)—Sir Hall Caine, noted novelist, once described as the wealthiest writer in the world, died last night after an illness of several weeks. He was 78.

Lady Caine and his two sons, Ralph Hall Caine and Derwent Hall Caine, and Attorney General Moore, of the Isle of Man, were at the bedside when the end came at Greeba Castle.

He was a journalist for a while until Dante Gabriel Rosetti, poet-painter, summoned him to London to become his secretary and companion.

For 50 years he produced literature. "The Deemster" and "The Manxman," tales of life on the Isle of Man, were among his first successes. "The Eternal City" and "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" came later and clinched his claims to popularity.

King Albert of the Belgians made him an officer of the Order of Leopold for his editorship of the war book and King George knighted him in 1918 for his picture of the British side of the war.

VETERANS' PROTESTS FAIL TO BLOCK DARRAH'S PROMOTION

SENATE PROBE TO DECIDE ISSUE

Wyant Indicates Attempt To 'Whitewash' Officer Removed During Battle

...otion of Col. Thomas ...yes, ...rah, now chief of staff ...Third Corps Area, to the ...t Brigadier General, ef...ctive today, will be carried out despite the protest of Congressman Adam M. Wyant, of Greensburg, according to the Westmoreland Representative. The promotion ordered by President Hoover, will stand until after an investigation and hearing by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, according to Army regulations, Congressman Wyant explained.

Col. Darrah was in command of the 55th Infantry Brigade of which the 110th Infantry was a unit during the Meuse-Argonne offensive and was relieved of command by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Muir.

APPEAL FOR REMOVAL

In military circles it was said that a direct appeal by Col. Joseph Thompson, of the 110th Infantry resulted in Gen. Muir relieving Col. Darrah of command.

Congressman Wyant, who filed the protest today said:

"No doubt someone is to blame for the death of a great many of the boys and they are trying to whitewash Darrah."

Congressman Wyant refusing to identify the Pennsylvania guardsmen who sponsored the protest, said they would appear before the Senate Committee which will probe the charges when the matter comes up for senatorial confirmation.

Former officers of the 110th Infantry were adverse to discussing the protest until the matter is up for action.

ENLISTED MEN PROTEST

In the Beaver Valley, the home of Col. Thompson, opposition to the promotion of Col. Darrah extends to the enlisted personnel. Capt. James W. Mackall, of Beaver, present commander of Company B, 110th Regiment, stationed at New Brighton, said:

"Some of the enlisted men in the Beaver Valley, who served in the World War, are very antagonistic to the promotion of Col. Darrah."

Col. William Fish, captain of Company B during the war, said that he knew of differences between Col. Darrah and officers of the regiment in France, but did not care to go into details.

Hoover Secretary Holds Darrah Promotion Just

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The Baltimore Sun says the advancement of Col. Thomas Darrah to the rank of brigadier general despite the protest of Representative Adam Wyant of Pennsylvania, is settled as far as the White House is concerned. Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries was quoted by the paper. Col. Darrah will wear the insignia of his new rank today it was said.

The President's secretary said Col. Darrah's military record had been examined and that he is an excellent officer. He added the officer was known to be a most strict disciplinarian and that it was believed that that had something to do with the complaint against his advancement.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, according to the dispatch will support the President's elevation of Col. Darrah.

Attempt to Wreck Three Trains Fails

...OODMONT, Conn., Sept. 1. ...)—Three trains, including the ...trealer, struck a series of ob...ctions placed on the tracks of ...New Haven Railroad last night. Railroad officials in New Haven today described it as a deliberate attempt to derail trains.

Engineer Nagle, of the Montrealer, en route from New York for Montreal, reported his train had run into a pile of tie plates and railroad ties near the Woodmont labor camp. The engine was slightly damaged.

2-Stop World Flight Set for Next April

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1. (AP.)—Roy W. Ammel, of Chicago, pilot and aeronautic engineer, says he will attempt a two-stop flight around the world next April, if contracts. Ammel announced tonight, will be let next week for an airplane of his own design, possessing two Isotta-Fraschini motors, each developing 800 horsepower.

Franklin Attorney Sails from Italy

Girl Hurt by Truck, Parents Ask $75,000

Mr. and Mrs. William Spearing, of Bloomfield, asked $75,000 damages for injuries to their daughter, Shirley Ruth, 9, struck by a truck last Wednesday, in their suit against the International Harvester Corporation filed in Common Pleas Court. The child suffered a fractured skull, ribs and leg when hit by the truck while she was crossing Cedarville street and is confined to a hospital, the suit charged.

GANDHI WEARS BLANKET

ABOARD THE SS. RAJPUTANA EN ROUTE TO LONDON, Sept. 1. (AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi, on the way to the Indian round table conference, has added a homespun blanket to his meager costume. The loin cloth, which ordinarily is his only garment, was inadequate protection against the chill winds, and it appeared likely he would wear the blanket also at London.

5,000 VETERANS MARCH

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 1. (AP.)—Martial strains and the tramp of marching feet dominated the program of the thirty-second annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here today.

A parade of more than 5,000 marchers replaced the morning business session. Assigned to the line of march were the various state delegations of World War veterans, members of the G. A. R., 10 bands and 30 drum and bugle corps.

Ernest Lee Jahnke, assistant secretary of the Navy, in an address last night, urged them to withhold demands for additional federal aid until the economic depression has passed.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of the United States Veterans' Bureau, promised the delegates:

"No veterans we know about will be in need of food or shelter this winter."

Weather Conditions

The weather is mostly cloudy over the Ohio Valley states and the central and southern states, and it is raining in Michigan, Northern Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. Light to moderate heavy rains occurred during yesterday and last night over the lake region, the lower Ohio Valley states, and the Mississippi Valley states. The heaviest amount reported was 2.76 inches at Keokuk, Ia., and 2.40 inches at Omaha. There was a marked rise in temperature over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region, and a fall over the Rocky Mountain states. Maximum temperatures were rather high again yesterday over the central and southern plains. The highest reported was 89 degrees at Dodge City, Kan.

Grant Withers Victor In Elopement Suit

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Grant Withers, actor, estranged husband of Loretta Young of the films, had a successful session in court yesterday.

Judge George Bullock dismissed a $55,000 damage suit brought against him on behalf of five school children who claimed injuries in a collision with Withers' automobile, and gave the actor a judgment of $560 for damages to his own car. The accident occurred when Withers and Miss Young were eloping.

Furnace Blast Fire Damages Creamery

Damage of $200 resulted from a fire in the Fairmont Creamery, Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets, at 6 a. m. today. Firemen said the fire was caused by the explosion of a tube in a furnace.

FIVE ARRESTED IN KIDNAPING OF BROKER

Part of $50,000 Ransom For Rosenthal Found; Woman 'Lure' Identified

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Police announced today that the kndnaping plot involving the young broker, Charles Rosenthal, had been solved, the kidnapers arrested and part of the $50,000 ransom money recovered.

Four men and a Negro woman—the latter so light of complexion as to pass for white—are held. Police Commissioner Mulrooney said they had admitted their part in the abduction. The woman, he said, has been identified by Rosenthal as the one who lured him into the hands of the others, who held him prisoner from August 11 until, upon payment of $50,000 ransom, he was released August 29.

The arrests were made yesterday and today in New York, Newark, N. J., and Atlantic City.

John Markham was arrested at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon. Last night detectives went to Newark, where John Rocco and Theodore Adnolfi were picked up. The woman, Betty Steward, was captured in Atlantic City with Nicholas Green, identified by Rosenthal as leader of the kidnapers.

The arrests may have saved the life of Green, Mulrooney said. Rocco and Arnolfi told him that they had planned to put Green "on the spot" for withholding $25,000 of the ransom money from them. More than $16,000 of the ransom was recovered.

Plane Follows Pigeon 'Kidnaper' Haunt Found

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS.)—After a thrilling race between an airplane and a carrier pigeon, police today waited for the pigeon owner to return home. They want to question him about a ransom demand made on Edgar F. Hazelton, whose son, 16, is missing.

A police airplane, after several failures, last night finally trailed one of the pigeons sent to Hazelton to be used to carry a $2,500 ransom. The flight led to a residence in Flushing, Queens, but the owner of the house, where the home cote was discovered, convinced police he knew nothing of the pigeons.

The residence owner said he had rented the pigeon house to a young man, whose name he did not know, who appeared every night to feed the birds. Last night he did not appear. Police awaited his arrival today.

Hazelton, a former Municipal Court justice in Queens, said his son may not have been kidnaped. He demanded proof of the kidnaping, but received none. The former jurist said he thought the pigeons were owned by a gang of blackmailers.

College Men Honor Theta Chi Founders

Paul Burke, of Homestead, represented the Ohio University chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity at the dedication of a monument to its founders, held Saturday in Norwich, Vt., original site of Norwich University. Pitt was represented by W. Anderson Ramsey, of Oil City, and Penn State by C. Edgar Newcomer, of Hazleton.

Joyride on Truck Brings Crashes, Fire, Parole

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—John Papas, 19, of 838 Seventh street, is under 60-day parole after police said he stole a truck of the Emerson Auto Company and started joyriding. The truck police said, hit a bicycle operated by Jack Heasley, 13, of 1532 Kenneth avenue, an automobile owned by Alex Henderson, struck Mrs. Catherine Spellman, 967 Barnes street, a pedestrian, and then crashed into a water can and gasoline pump at Redman's Auto Service, 916 Third avenue, hurling the can through a plate glass window. Papas fled as a spark from the electrically-driven gasoline pump fired the leaking gasoline, police said. Damage was placed at $400. Burgess Daniel Burns paroled the youth when persons involved refused to prosecute.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

GLADYS GLAD (MRS. MARK HELLINGER) AND PET, "BARNEY," SUNNING ON LONG ISLAND

AIDES IN 'FALL' KILLING HUNTED

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Police were searching today for two men accused of attempting to poison Steve Mak a few days before he fell from an upper window of Mrs. Rose Veras' rooming house and became the twelfth lodger to die within eight years.

Assistant Prosecutor George M. Stutz said the lodging house keeper in admitting to a friend she had pushed the man to his death, implicated the two men in previous attempts on the life of her lodger, whom she had insured for $2,460.

Although Frank M. Kenney, Jr., Mrs. Veras' attorney, denied existence of a "confession," Stutz insisted the woman had told the full story.

Mrs. Veras and her son are to have a hearing Friday on the murder charge. In her home were found 75 insurance policies.

BIG JOBS SEEN FOR MACDONALD

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Ramsay MacDonald and "Jim" Thomas have been hounded from the Labor organizations to which they have devoted most of their lives, but few observers believe either of them will be driven from British public life.

There are too many big jobs to be done after the present financial crisis is solved, it is felt, for them to retire.

Mr. MacDonald's active parliamentary life will be ended with the coming session of Parliament, according to those who know him well. He is not likely to stand for re-election, but it is held that the nation will continue to call on his talents for the solution of many problems.

Lord Balfour, it is recalled, rendered his greatest public services after his retirement from the political arena.

Marqui's Wou'd Let Connie Set Wedding Date

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Constance Bennett, screen actress, returned from France on the liner Paris today, with the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray.

Asked if they would be married in December, the marquis, who is awaiting a final decree of divorce from Gloria Swanson, said:

"It is customary for the lady to set the date."

Miss Bennett said her losses at Monte Carlo were heavier than she would have liked them. Her trip abroad was marred by much rain, she said, adding:

"I guess the California climate has spoiled me."

Sidney Smith, stock broker and former husband of Florence Rice, stage actress, was another passenger on the liner. He declined to say whether he intended to marry Lilly Damita, screen actress, but said he had seen her abroad.

Two Die, One Hurt As Truck Overturns

KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—A man and a youth were killed and a youth was hurt today when a truck en route from Seward to Canton, O., overturned on a steep hill. All were residents of Seward.

Cecil B. Wagner, 40, and Carl Harabrosky, 17, were killed. Robert Wagner, 17, nephew of Cecil, suffered cuts on his face and head and a broken wrist.

Cecil Wagner was driving the truck loaded with laurel. He lost control of the machine. All three were pinned in the wreckage.

Injured Cyclist Dies in Hospital

MEADVILLE, Pa., Sept. 1.—Kenneth Barnard, 19, motorcyclist whose machine crashed into an automobile on the dangerous "S" curve at Linesville, died in Spencer Hospital.

200,000 PUPILS BEGIN SCHOOL

Vacation over, approximately 200,000 pupils of public and parochial schools in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County trooped back to school rooms today.

Of these about 110,000 were public school pupils of Pittsburgh, according to Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent, who based the estimate on the number enrolled at the close of the school year in June.

Parochial schools will open their doors for about 66,000 children, according to the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent.

In most of the independent public school districts of the county schools opened today, among them the third-class cities and larger boroughs.

In schools under jurisdiction of the County Superintendent of Schools, classes will open next Monday, following teachers' institute this week.

S. S. ROSENBERG LAWYER, DIES

Samuel S. Rosenberg, 35, who rose from a newsboy to a prominent place in criminal practice at the Allegheny County Bar, died early today in the Mayo Hospital, Rochester, Minn.

Mr. Rosenberg

Brought here from Russia when a child, he was reared in Gusky Orphanage. He sold newspapers on the streets of downtown Pittsburgh, attending the public schools and later Duquesne University Law School, from which he was graduated 10 years ago. He leaves his widow, his father, Benjamin Rosenberg; a brother, Martin, and five sisters, Mrs. Edward Fredland, Mrs. Harry Segal, Mrs. William Frank, Mrs. Jack Glick and Mrs. Herman Glantz, all of Pittsburgh. He resided at 1915 Webster avenue.

Deckhand In River Saved and Arrested

A disorderly conduct charge was placed against Sam Sherman, of Bailey avenue, after he was rescued from the Monongahela River by a steamboat deckhand yesterday, police said. Sherman had two ax handles in his hands when rescued. Because of his condition, police said they believed that Sherman thought the handles were oars. He was lodged in the Central Police Station.

Kite Flying Banned While Pilots Train

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Boys in this vicinity must not fly their kites while Schneider Cup pilots are training for the races on September 12. The restrictions were put in effect after several fliers narrowly missed running into kites or kite cords. The airplane mechanisms are so delicate that such a collision probably would result in a crash.

ARMY PLANES STAGE FLYING WAR DANCE

Woman Flier Holds Biggest Share of Honors so Far At National Air Race

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Fifty thundering fighters staged a "war dance" of stunts through the skies today in observance of Army day at the national air races. They were from the 1st Army Pursuit group at Selfridge Field, Mich.

So far at the races a woman has gained the largest share of the honors. She is Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, of Memphis, who flies a Monocoupe. With this ship she won the handicap derby from Santa Monica, Cal., to Cleveland, and two 30-mile closed course races for women. In the handicap she beat a field of 51 men and women aviators winning the grand prize as well as the prize for women. She scored 109.19 points, while D. C. Warren, of Alameda, Cal., who won the men's division of the race was given 103.5 points.

Lee Brusse, of Glendale, Cal., took third place with 101.84; Elden, Cessna, Wichita, Kan., fourth, 101.37, and Marcellus King, Minneapolis, fifth, 100.76.

Second place in the women's division was awarded to Mrs. Marie Bowman, of Glendale, with 98.98 points. Miss Mae Hamlin, Ferguson, Mo., 98.90, third, and Miss Edith Foltz, Portland, Ore., fourth, 97.98.

Twelve huge naval flying boats from the U. S. S. Wright were scheduled to arrive during the day from Rockaway, N. Y.

SPEED DASH DELAYED

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Seven pilots entered in a free-for-all air dash to Cleveland have a material incentive to hurry along to New York from there in an effort to break the transcontinental record of Capt. Frank Hawks.

Vincent Bendix, Chicago airplane manufacturer, telephoned from Cleveland last night an offer of $2,500 cash for the breaking of Hawks' record. Col. Arthur Goebel, Los Angeles, announced yesterday he would not compete in the Burbank-Cleveland race, for which prizes of $15,000 are offered.

The competitors postponing their takeoff from today on account of poor weather conditions, will meet tonight to talk over the possibility of getting away tomorrow.

RICKENBACKER GREETS ENEMY

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Two fighting men, enemies in France 13 years ago, had met and made it up today.

Yesterday, for the first time since their combat days in the World War, Col. Eddie Rickenbacker and Maj. Ernst Udet greeted each other as friends.

At Chateau Thiery, Soissons and St. Mihiel they opposed each other. Rickenbacker shot down 26 German planes and Udet, who fought in company of Baron von Richthofen, is credited with 62 allied ships.

Speaking into the mocrophone as a feature of the National Air Races, Maj. Udet said:

"I am glad to meet my old enemies who have now become my friends."

Rickenbacker replied:

"I'm tickled to death to see him—to think that we're both alive."

And that was how ace met ace 13 years after a pretty tough war.

Big Funeral Banned For Phila. Beer King

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(INS.)—Mickey Duffy, slain beer baron and ex-convict, will not have the "greatest funeral" ever staged in Philadelphia or the kind accorded gangsters in other cities, it became evident today.

Director of Public Safety L. B. Schofield asked:

"Why all this furore about a dead thief? Philadelphia police will not permit the huge demonstrations and show that have marked gang funerals in other cities."

Chain Firm Faces Bankruptcy Action

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court today against the John Thrifty Stores, Inc., operating in Somerset, State College, Bellefonte and Lock Haven. The firm's home office is listed as in Altoona.

Claims of $3,302 for merchandise delivered were filed by creditors.

Reading's Bride-Secretary Has 'Honeymoon' at Desk

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The Daily Herald says today that Lady Reading, 37, bride of the Marquis of Reading, resumed her work as her husband's secretary when their honeymoon was cut short by the latter's appointment as foreign minister in the new national cabinet.

Lord and Lady Reading were married on August 6. She is 33 years younger than her husband and was his secretary for a number of years, including when he was Viceroy of India from 1921 to 1926.

They were in Paris when Lord Reading was called to London at the formation of the new cabinet and her Ladyship yesterday was again at her desk. The Herald said she told a friend:

"I think I am working harder now than ever."

Ambassador Fetes Lindys, Anne 'Steals' Party

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—(INS.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh got a taste of life at a Japanese summer resort today at Karuizawa, where they were the guests of Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes at his summer residence.

Col. Lindbergh motored from Tokio to Karuizawa yesterday in company with the assistant military attache at the American embassy, while Mrs. Lindbergh went there by train with the ambassador and members of his family. Japan's official welcome to the fliers came to an end last night with the dinner given at his residence by Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki. Among the guests were many distinguished Japanese, most of whom were acquainted with Senator Dwight W. Morrow, father of Mrs. Lindbergh.

The invitation's had read "to meet Mrs. Lindbergh and her husband," and after the dinner Col. Lindbergh chuckled:

"It was Anne's party all right."

"Surely no husband could do all the things your husband has done without his wife's finding it out.

"Maybe it does sound strange but I'm telling you the truth. I never knew a thing about it.

"You never saw the garage he built?"

"No. He told me he was building it. I told me about the plans to divide the basement into four rooms.

"When got the soundproof board or whatever you call it, I asked him:

"Harry, what do you want this for?' Why do you have to have anything like that out there?'

"He replied: 'Oh, I just want to keep the acids or ink from going through when I am making blueprints.'

NEVER AT GARAGE

"All I know about the garage is from the pictures and articles and stories I have seen in the newspapers. Us girls were reared out there, although I was born in Ritchie County."

Mrs. Powers denied she had met her Romeo husband through a matrimonial agency, although she does think there is any harm in selecting a husband that way. She said:

"I don't think it's any harm to get acquainted by this method as I would rather find true love in this way as I don't care for any of the Clarksburg men."

Killings Bring U. S. Steps To Close Love Bureaus

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Postal inspectors throughout the nation will keep alert to detect fraudulent matrimonial agencies as a result of the murder in West Virginia of two women who were lured to their death by smoothly-phrased letters, and of three children.

Postoffice Department officials here, from First Assistant Postmaster Arch Coyle down, told the Washington Daily ... they had been shocked by the revelation of how the mails were used by Harry Powers, alias Frank ... Peterson, Coleman said:

"We are anxious to receive complaints or information of fraudulent operations of matrimonial agencies. It is not possible for the Postoffice inspectors to institute a sweeping inquiry into all agencies, as we can act only when we have information or complaints against definite individuals or firms.

"But, believe me, we shall do all in our power to smash any against which we do receive bona fide complaints and which our investigators are able to confirm. In the past we have imprisoned a number of men operating matrimonial agencies."

Such influence, plus independent strength, might cause the defeat of the four Kline candidates which would be a severe blow to the Mayor under existing conditions.

REPRISALS FEARED

It is also argued in behalf of this view that the Mayor in removing opposition to Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, in no way helped Coyne, foe of the Register of Wills, a reciprocated sentiment—but may have made things easier for at least two of his Councilmen. Mackrell is on the Independent ticket as well as that of the Mayor, but in speeches at Independent headquarters is touching only his own candidacy except when he takes a fling at Coyne.

The reported understanding when Mackrell and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley were adopted by the Independents was that they should not be bound to support the remainder of the ticket, and certainly that principle has been carried out. Both are followers of the old faction of Senator M. G. Lessig, who is out of all for Mansfield. The latter has refused to join McGovern in a campaign which has resulted in some ill feeling on the part of the Independents.

ARMSTRONG-MANSFIELD 'AD'

Endeavors to make it appear that a Mansfield-Armstrong hookup has been perfected is spreading to new sections outside of Pittsburgh. A half-page ad in the Putnam Herald appeals to voters to vote for Armstrong and Mansfield who are denoted "The people's choice, progressive and safe."

In McKeesport, home of Mansfield, friends of the Senator are claiming that Armstrong will be second man there. In recent years the chairman of the County Board has been unpopular in the eastern end of the county because of the alleged double-cross he gave the late J. Denny O'Neil when the latter was a candidate for Commissioner in 1923.

O'Neil's son is a candidate for Treasurer this year and hints are being dropped that the Armstrong organization may give him some help.

Sells Tickets To Curious at 'Murder Farm'

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—County officers found a board fence erected along the highway in front of the slaughter farm at Quiet Dell when they went there this morning, and a man was selling tickets at the gate. Twenty-five cents was charged for admission of adults and 15 cents for children.

Two workmen at the farm said they were hired by a man named Kincaid, and the fence was completed at 4 a. m. today. They said Kincaid told them he had leased the property. Sheriff W. B. Grimm told the workmen to find the man and direct him to report for questioning.

POWERS LOVING, SEER DECLARED

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Harry F. Powers, West Virginia's modern Bluebeard, did not like to give caresses freely, but had a tremendous capacity for affection, his horoscope, read by a New York astrological astrologer, found after the effects, today, revealed.

A daily [illegible] guide cost Powers $1, read:

"Once you give your love, you do not change easily, especially if your life partner is in sympathy with your nature."

Powers' disposition was disclosed as inclined toward melancholy and pessimism.

"You like to worry, and sometimes it is hard for you to be cheerful.

"By raising your mental vibrations, you might create for yourself another frame of mind that would allow your very best instincts to dominate your life. Those beautiful, artistic and altruistic thoughts which you sometimes hide even from yourself ought to come to the surface."

The astrologer urged Powers to replace his unhappy thoughts to strengthen his good tendencies. He struck a significant note in the following:

"You have your own way of settling things, which might vary from methods employed by others whom you hold in high esteem."

Film Shows Powers In Romantic Pose With Victim

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Undeveloped films, tested in the effects of Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, 45-year-old love lackey, disclosed today a graphic story of Mrs. Dorothy Lemke's rendezvous with death.

Smiling over anticipated happiness with the man she hoped to marry, Mrs. Lemke is depicted without guile as she was when her shiny-naked body was dumped in a ditch Saturday night on the Quiet Dell love farm of her matrimonial agency sweetheart.

Powers, the love fiend, posed for Mrs. Lemke, a broad smirk on his pudgy face.

The pictures found by police are believed to have been taken along Route 40, leading into Clarksburg from Fairmont.

TEXAS OIL FIELD TO RESUME

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The East Texas oil field, dormant since August 17 under a military shutdown, awaited only formal orders from the Texas Railroad Commission today to resume large scale production.

The commission announced its new proration plan was completed late yesterday but declined to reveal its provisions. It planned to adopt the new order today.

From reliable sources it was learned that under the plan—the initial move of the railroad commission under the state's new conservation statute—each well would be allowed to produce 225 barrels of oil a day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Death today forced a change in the plans which thereafter levying San Franciscans had made for Fritz Hartman, a favorite of the American stage a generation ago.

Instead of turning out tonight for a benefit performance for Hartman, as originally planned, the playgoers will see the show and pay tribute to Hartman's memory, but the proceeds of the performance will go to the unemployed.

Hartman, 69, died last night as the last seats for the benefit were sold.

Probe Authenticity Of 'Crater Note'

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 1.—(INS.)—The authenticity of a note scribbled on the joker of a deck of cards and signed "Justice Crater," the New York jurist who mysteriously vanished 16 months ago, is being investigated here.

The card, which appealed for aid and said the writer was held captive on a houseboat in the Detroit River, was turned over to a Toledo fireman as he was entering the police station last night by a woman who claimed she found it in a bottle while fishing with her husband.

Senator's Whiskers Nearly Get Him Job in Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Former United States Senator Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts and his beard were mistaken yesterday for parts of a motion picture.

A harried assistant director rounding up several bearded extras for a scene, nudged the former Senator emphatically and told him to shake a leg on to the set.

Several bearded figured in the scene and the assistant thought the ex-Senator was one of them. Gillett, however, didn't have to go to work.

COAL PARLEY'S BAN LAID TO OPERATORS

Doak Tells Lewis Owners Refuse to Co-operate; Only 38 of 160 Favorable

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The administration's move to bring together representative groups of bituminous coal mine operators and workers has failed, due to the unwillingness of many of the former to co-operate in a conference on conditions in the industry.

Secretary Doak, of the Labor Department, yesterday advised President Hoover of the situation and made public a letter to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, appraising him of the futility of the move.

More than a hundred of 160 operators polled by the Labor Department indicated they would not attend a conference either by correspondence or by not replying, while 21 questioned the value of the parley and but 38 favored it.

In his letter to Lewis, Doak said the combined number of operators favoring the conference and those willing to attend, while questioning its value, would represent about 450,000 tons in daily coal production, while those unwilling to participate represented around 2,000,000 tons.

At Springfield, Ill., Lewis said he had not yet received Doak's letter. He reserved comment.

Coolidge, Dr. Baker Proposed as 'Coal Czar'

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Four sponsors of a plan to stabilize the soft coal industry in the tri-state area of Northern West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio conferred with Gov. Pinchot yesterday.

They were Manager-Mayor T. T. Beckett, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Earl Dunner and Rawley Holcomb, of the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce; J. B. Ebeling and Harry Jungling, coal operators, of Wheeling, and C. Frank Sinclair, of the Steubenville, O., Chamber of Commerce.

The delegates submitted to the Pennsylvania Governor the names of six men who may be approached later in selection of a "national coal czar." Named were Calvin Coolidge, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, Senator Dwight W. Morrow and John W. Davis, of Clarksburg and New York, former Democratic presidential nominee.

LIBERALS SCORE PICKETING BAN

A protest over the order of Sheriff J. A. Seaman forbidding further picketing in Washington County by mine strikers, with the threat to close relief kitchens operated by the strikers if the order is not obeyed, has been forwarded by the Western Pennsylvania branch of the American Civil Liberties Union to Sheriff Seaman.

The protest, a copy of which was sent to Gov. Gifford Pinchot, in part says:

"Regardless of whether or not you have the authority to forbid picketing in your county, may we urge that such action would seriously compromise the fight that miners are making for relief from unbearable wage and working conditions.

"The American Civil Liberties Union protests most vigorously against your announced intention of closing relief kitchens in case picketing continues. This act would be most inhuman in view of the semi-starvation imposed on coal miners through the chaos of an industry over which they have no control."

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

IT IS my duty to report that A[illegible] is a character. He is, I should say, about 40 years of age. Nobody knows his past history, and nobody cares much about his future. His salary is $9 a week, and his job consists of keeping beds in one of the cheapest flophouses on the Bowery. What's an occupation for you!

For several years now Al has struggled with some of the strangest men in the world. The customers at his hotel consist of hopheads, pickpockets, soft drunks, beggars and derelicts of every description. When one of them spends a quarter for a bed, he has generally blown his bankroll for that day. A dollar bill has as much chance around that spot as a hate flip in a declamation contest.

But if you think Al is [illegible] crooked as his customers, you're [illegible] another thing. [illegible] deep respect [illegible] der. Deep down [illegible] of a reform[illegible] deeply when [illegible] his custome[illegible] again. And [illegible] will listen.

"If you [illegible] gonna b[illegible] that's wha[illegible] me. I'm [illegible] Sure I do[illegible] nine bu[illegible] walk slo[illegible] right in the [illegible]

"You [illegible] squawkin' [illegible] and how [illegible] go back [illegible] you'd stay [illegible] shoulda done [illegible] wouldn't [illegible] sible.

"Why don't [illegible] an' go straight. [illegible] try it and be happy [illegible]

And so it has gone [illegible] years. Al never once [illegible] but he always keeps [illegible] regulars around. He laughs at his preachings, but never do him and hands. He wonders among some of the most desperate characters who [illegible] He gives the very best [illegible] them. Yet they wouldn't harm him for anything.

A short time ago the Bowery bedmaker picked up a paper and read of a gigantic mass meeting that was to be held in Madison Square Garden. Galamity Kelly had been going on endlessly to [illegible] a prolific clip—and this was to be a protest against them.

Al read the story several times and put down the paper. He touched the arm of a bum who sat beside him.

"You wanna know somethin'," he asked. "I'm gonna go to that meetin' and holler like blazes. That's somethin' what I calls real patriotic.

"The racketeerin' in this city is gettin' terrible. It's a wonder that you bums wouldn't move out and give us decent folks a chance to live peaceable-like. I'm going to that meetin' and help all them decent citizens."

Now, it so happens that Al's only vacation arrives once in every two weeks. He is permitted a half-day off every fortnight, and, unfortunately enough, he had gone to a movie show only a few nights before. But this didn't stop him. In a case like this he was going to be patriotic even if it cost him his job. So he squared his shoulders and approached the boss.

"Boss," he said, "I gotta get off the night after tomorrow. This is somethin' very important. You ain't gonna mind are you?"

The boss asked the reason. And when Al told him he shook his head dubiously.

"Al," he muttered, "I think you're goin' a little daffy. You don't belong uptown with them class mugs. You better stay down

Ten minutes later an ambulance carried both drivers to the hospital. Not from the crash—but from kicking each other around the street! . . .

Patricia Pitt

Now that the flutter of weddings and wedding plans is over for a few days, I'll return to the ever popular topic of the horse shows scheduled for this month. A large number of folks have been invited to make entries and quite a few have already entered their favorites for the Pittsburgh Hunt horse show on the eleventh and twelfth of this month at the Pittsburgh Hunt Club show ring.

Among those at Mrs. Burke Boyle's ... Gordon Vare, D. E. J. McCahill, Mr. ... Cague, David I. McCahill, ... three children, David, ... and Mr. and Mrs. ... L. McCook, Thomas K. ... # TRI-BOROUGH JUNIORS BEGIN SEASON NEXT WEEK

'Jungle Rhythm' To Be Subject Of Traveler

Just one week from tonight and the junior department of the Tri-Borough Woman's Club will have begun another season. There is to be a business session, a talk on "Rhythm in the Jungle" by Laura Crater Boulton, a member of the Pulitzer and Strauss expedition to Africa and a reception for the others.

A fashion show is scheduled to take place after the October meeting at this the senior members will be guests. Mary Louise Stroup will group from Pittsburgh to address the girls in November. And in December there's to be a Christmas program in charge of the dramatic and music committees.

Another Pittsburgh speaker, Chester Martin Wallace of Carnegie Tech's drama school, will visit the club in January and will read a play and a third speaker from here. Cyril Hungerford, virtuoso, is scheduled for February. Helen Ritchie Scobie McKrespell, soprano, will talk on her education at the March meeting and for April, Mrs. Adam Wyant of Greensburg and Washington will tell the members of Conventions of the Official Life in Washington. May 14 closes the year with the annual meeting and banquet.

Miss Ruth Baxter is this year's president. Miss Ann Thompson is first vice president, Miss Jessie Farr second vice president, Miss Virginia Cowan recording secretary, Mrs. R. B. Davison corresponding secretary and Mrs. J. F. McLanahan, treasurer.

Mrs. Walter McFarland is general chairman for the annual festival to be held September 11 and 12 by the men's and women's Bible classes of the Reformed Church of the Ascension, Termon avenue, North Side. The affair will take place on the church grounds. Mrs. Charles Muehlbronner is chairman of the cafeteria and Mrs. McFarland Kate Flahaven of the baked goods sale, which will feature the festival.

An open meeting will be held by the Eighteenth Ward Republican Women's Club tomorrow evening in Liederkranz Hall, Curtin avenue. Joseph G. Armstrong and Congressman Harry A. Estep will be the speakers, and a musical program will be given. Mrs. Lida Peelor will preside.

* * *

Mrs. John S. Sloan will preside tonight at the mass meeting to be conducted in Frick Training School by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. The meeting has been arranged to hear the speakers with the peace caravan being sent over the country by the national organization of the league. Several motor cars filled with Pittsburgh members will meet the "caravaners" near Crafton and will escort them to the City-County Building where they will be welcomed by Mayor [illegible]

Sloan Scholarship Club Distribution Increased

The Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club has increased its scholarship distribution from $1,500 to $2,000 for this semester. This was done at the executive board meeting held yesterday at the Congress of Clubs, and among other business transacted was the appointment of Mrs. Sylvester J. Snee as advisor to the juniors. Mrs. W. C. McClure as chairman of the social committee and of each vice president to a specific duty. Mrs. D. Edwin Miller is in charge of publicity, Mrs. David I. McCahill in charge of program, and Mrs. Walter R. Fleming of activities, included in which is the birthday table for each monthly meeting. Mrs. J. D. Boydston is music chairman and is planning two benefit recitals for the season.

The next benefit bridge luncheon of which the directors are holding a series, will be at the home of Mrs. Carl D. Bushnell of Rosslyn Farms, on September 16. The executive board will sponsor a benefit bridge luncheon at the Wesson Oil Company, Federal street, on October 16, with Mrs. John Howard Phillips and Mrs. Richard Arthur as co-chairman. The board has also taken a table at the citizenship luncheon to be given September 10 in Kaufmann's by the women's department of the Council of Churches in honor of Judge Sara Soffel.

Church Council Women To Hear Judge Soffel

To demonstrate the church women's interest in citizenship, the women's department of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches will sponsor a luncheon on September 10 in Kaufmann's at which Judge Sara Soffel will be the principal speaker and will have "The Responsibility of Citizenship" as her subject.

Charles H. Kline. Miss Katherine Blake, of the caravan, will speak to the students and teachers at Frick Training School tomorrow afternoon. Both she and Miss Mabel Vernon will make radio addresses in the late afternoon and will be guests of honor at a dinner in the Rittenhouse at 6 o'clock.

* * *

Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, past president, has been named chairman of international friendship for the Congress of Clubs, and is to be assisted by Mrs. Robert T. Alexander and Mrs. David Alter. The committee will be organized with a view to having its members available as international relations speakers for clubs.

WALKER VISITS PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Mayor Walker, of New York, arrived at the Gare De Lyon at 8:30 a. m. today, after an all-night ride from Cannes, on the Riviera. He went to the Hotel Crillon where President Wilson stopped during the peace conference.

Before leaving Cannes yesterday, he told Yvonne Valee, wife of Maurice Chevalier, film star, that he would not be able to see her when she arrived in New York September 17 because he intended to return to Cannes after visiting Paris. He said:

"I plan to come back to the Riviera for a good long stay."

The Mayor announced he had received an invitation from British Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to visit him in London and that he might accept it.

Hoover to Speak On College Movement

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—President Hoover was requested by Senator Fess (Rep.), Ohio, to say a word for the liberal arts college movement, and he consented to do so tomorrow before a committee.

The liberal arts movement, Senator Fess explained, is one aimed to make more secure the place of the smaller colleges. Senator Fess himself formerly was president of Antioch College.

BABCOCK WILL CROWN QUEEN

County Commissioner E. V. Babcock will crown the queen of the pageant sponsored by the Allegheny Tablelands Association at Somerset, Pa., Saturday. Residents of eight counties will take part in the pageant, the first effort of the association to focus attention on the area as a summer and winter playground. The association was organized through the efforts of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

The pageant is to be held at Rhoades Flying Field at Somerset. More than a year ago the chamber inaugurated the movement to develop the tableland area, virtually isolated from any large marketing center, and encourage the residents to come to Pittsburgh and use Pittsburgh products.

Sewickley Man Keeps Aeronautics Post

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Reappointment of Richard W. Robbins, of Sewickley, as a member of the state Aeronautics Commission and of Miles Horst, Harrisburg, as a member of the state Farm Products Show Commission, was announced by Gov. Pinchot.

He also announced the appointment of Fred Shaffer, of Vandergrift, as Justice of the Peace in Washington Township, Westmoreland County, succeeding D. M. Young, resigned.

MIGHTY INFLUENCE OF SECOND EMPIRE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Sept. 1.—There isn't a new hat in Paris that doesn't reflect the influence of the Second Empire of the Victorian days. Every Parisian milliner has his own particular favorite, but they all go to the same sources for their inspiration. At the races last month Agnes wore her own Shepherdess hat. Of felt, it reveals tilted lines and it is worn so far to the right side of the head that a ribbon strap is necessary to hold it to the head.

ANOTHER QUAINT version of the Shepherdess type of hat is also of felt. It dips sharply in front and back and is trimmed simply with tailored grosgrain ribbon ending in streamers at the back. Le Monnier deserves credit for this model. Quite jaunty and very effective is a Scotch cap of braided felt strips. The strips are fringed at the ends and the fringe serves to outline the intricate draped contours of the hat. Even sports hats have gone Second Empire. Paton makes a tweed felt on these lines banded in multi-colored felt strips.

THE LITTLE MERCURY hat has taken Paris by storm. In the sketch here is shown one of these becoming shapes in shiny black straw with two bright green long ostrich quills crossed at the front of the crown. The curving line of the brim, tipped at an angle, is most flattering to nearly every type of face. This model is from Mme. Jose.

THE OTHER HAT, also from Mme. Jose, is of soft supple felt in pale green. It is rather small and the shape sugests the Eugenie influence, but the brim has a deep point and the low right side which, together with the point in the front and the sharply rolled up left side, hints also at the tricorne. There is a second, smaller brim above the wider one which lies next to the crown. Three cords passing under the felt cross the top of the crown from front to back. The right side of the brim is rolled back beneath two small black ostrich tips.

Smart CLOTHES for the COLLEGE GIRL

WITH WOOLENS TAKING THE LEAD IN POPULARITY

FROCKS . . $35 to $85

The recent Paris openings have shown a decided preference for woolen dresses, and the college set has adopted the idea. Could there be anything more practical? Their colours are glorious . . . greens, burgundy, tile shades, magenta. Some have touches of fur, others have gay flowing scarfs, and you see many ornamented with angora.

Of a certainty, crepe frocks have a place in the collegiate wardrobe. These are of the more brilliant hues and boldly contrasting colours, suitable alike for classroom and the little informal sorority affairs.

SUITS . . $95 to $150

This year there is a marked preference for Tweeds and soft imported Woolens. One interesting idea is a smart tailored type with Topcoat and Hat to match. The topcoat is either fur-trimmed or finished with a jaunty, care-free colourful scarf. Their blouses, in plaids, are of Rodier inspiration.

Quite a number of the girls going East have chosen a suit which combined a woolen dress with a fur jacket. The idea is smart and extremely practical. One model has a short jacket of beaver Lapin for wear on the campus. When taken off in class, it reveals a vividly coloured woolen dress. One notices that the dress and jacket lining are alike.

CAST JUGGLING

Dolores Del Rio's First Film Since 'The Bad One' To Be 'The Dove'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.

In nine years as a Hollywood reporter, I've never seen such an epidemic of cast juggling.

Now it is Leo Carrillo who will play "the best caballero in all Mexico."

Until a few days ago, Warner Baxter was slated to play this swaggering heavy in Radio Pictures' talkie version of "The Dove." Then along came Fox and decided Warner must stay on the home lot.

Fortunately for Radio, Leo Carrillo was available to take the important role. He was suggested in the first place, but at the time was fed up on another engagement.

Warner Baxter

"The Dove" will be Dolores Del Rio's first picture since she made "The Bad One" for United Artists. Herbert Brenton will direct, and production starts September 20. You probably recall that Holbrook Blinn created the role Carrillo will take in the film.

GUESS HE'S CORRECT

One of those long-winded speakers held forth at the luncheon given Post and Gaffy in Los Angeles.

"If he'd talked another five minutes," flipped Eddie Cantor, "the boys could have made another flight around the world."

LATEST GOSSIP

Lionel Barrymore will receive billing above Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes in Fred Fitzsch's "The Man I Killed."

Harold Lloyd, at the age of 7 months, weighs 14 pounds. That is almost five times his birth weight.

Geoffrey Kerr thinks he may be up against a new racket. The other day he received a letter from a man in New York asking for $25. According to the writer, this amount was promised to the person who found a carrier pigeon set off by Kerr in Los Angeles. The only trouble is Geoffrey knows nothing about it.

Victor Schertzinger has had another kind of difficulty with pigeons. He ran into a flock of them on the highway and received a cut on the face when feathered bodies broke his windshield. A similar accident, in which a jackrabbit figured, caused Raoul Walsh to lose the sight in one eye.

Frank Tuttle is startling Hollywood with a black beard accumulated abroad. Walter Huston is through at Warners. His last picture, "The Ruling Voice," has been temporarily shelved because it contained too many gangster scenes.

Nancy Carroll

Film Outlook For Season Is Good

The movie business is looking up. More people are going to attend theaters during the coming season according to Felix F. Feist, general manager in charge of sales and distribution for M-G-M in New York, who reports a considerable increase in the number of advance orders received from exhibitors for forthcoming Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures over the bookings on hand at this time last year.

"My prediction for a steady upward business trend is based only on a comparison of bookings," said Mr. Feist. "If theater men have confidence in a good motion picture season—and this is the only explanation for the increased bookings—I think it's a very accurate indication that we may expect one of the most profitable seasons of recent years."

BOX OFFICE AIDS

The upward trajectory for his own company's product was attributed by Mr. Feist to the unusual business registered during the past season by such films as "Trader Horn," Greta Garbo in "Inspiration," Norma Shearer in "Strangers May Kiss" and "A Free Soul," Marion Davies in "Five and Ten," Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Reducing" and "Politics" and Joan Crawford in "Dance, Fools, Dance" and "Paid," all produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

STAR LIST LARGER

During the coming season it was pointed out the M-G-M star roster of Marion Davies, Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Ramon Novarro, William Haines, Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery, Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery and Buster Keaton will be reinforced by such additions from the realm of the New York stage as Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne playing together in "The Guardsman," Helen Hayes, Jimmy Durante and other players.

"It is my impression," commented Mr. Feist, "that a stronger writing personnel than ever before has been assembled at several of the California studios, with playwrights and writers of world-wide reputation more prominent there than in the East. I think it likely that the new year will be characterized by a more diversified group of stars material than any other season."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Back from vacation and learn that the "legitimate" theater still is clinging to the long loaf, unsliced. Whereas I had expected to find the fag end of August all but fagged out from labors of bringing forth a new born season, I discover that nary a faggot has been lit toward the kindling of any local dramatic flame, although the first September morn has arriven. But there are some hopeful signs for those who are still believers. Make a pun upon that, if you like. "Everybody his own comedian." Among them is announcement of the earlier activities of a couple of plays likely to be seen here before the end of October. One of them is that the "The Admirable Crichton." "Crichton to those who may not know how the good old king's English, as spilled by Sir James M. Barrie, is pronounced) will begin to be revived by Walter Hampden and Fay Bainter under the banner of George Tyler in our own Keystone state. Reading is the town and September 28 the date proposed for the rejuvenation. October 20, which falls upon a Chewsduh. The Admirable One will drop into the Nixon for a V-day visit. On the preceding Munduh (will be one-night-standing it in another place as a Save-Our-Stage endeavor. Another, "The Vinegar Tree," is to be tapped in Bosting a coupla weeks earlier, i. e. September 14. The local significance is that it is looming up for the Alvin, and probably will be here within few weeks of the time it concludes a tentative tree weeks in the town that made the bean so (shall we say-famous?) yes we shall. Mary Boland is the star of "The Vinegar Tree," which by the way does not give vinegar, or even cider. Among we botanists such a tree is just a sumac.

Jack "Papa" Simons who would be manager of the Alcazar if there were any managing to do, there just now, has returned from Rochester, Syracuse and points north and east, where he labored while other Loew men vacashed. He now is temporarily occupied as exploiteer or publicity generalissimo for the Penn. While in Philly he met I. J. Lanning, former mgr. of the Penn, then bossing things at Messrs. Warner's Mastodum Theater, where he had been since leaving Pitt more than a year ago. Then in New York he met Mr. Lanning who was doing a little managing in the Strand. Returning to our fair city, whom did he meet but Mr. Lanning again, just t'other day. This time Mr. L. was en route to Cleveland to manage the Palace, an RKO house. Jack wondered if Mr. Lanning, an unusually steady chap, were getting jumpy.

Small Timer says he listened to a political bird arguing the other day and concluded that some talk really is cheap.

Beginning Thursday, the Fulton, heretofore addicted to Friday openings, will give the customers the first showings of its new bills a day earlier than it has. The first feature, under the changed arrangements, will be "Huckleberry Finn," with Jackie Coogan, Junior Durkin, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl, the same kids who made "Tom Sawyer" something to go nutty about.

Melodrama In Movie Voyage

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Transatlantic," new picture in the Warner, is not as big as its title sounds. But it is an entertaining melodrama.

The manner of its direction makes an improbable yarn into an above-the-average production. Keen camera "shots" an element of suspense and capable cast keep it interesting.

The picture opens with a kaleidoscopic punch. The movie cameras have imprisoned all the hum and excitement that attends the sailing of a big ocean liner. Then, as the big ship gets under way, so does the story.

AIR OF MYSTERY

This story involves a strange assortment of characters and holds an air of mystery. A gambler, who never gambles; a bank president, escaping the tumbling of his failing bank; a vampish dancer; a gang of crooks, a neglected wife and an old lens grinder and his daughter—all find the paths of their lives crossing for the duration of the voyage and then separating again.

The picture seems to catch a realistic slice of steamship travel life. And into this has been spilled good old Hollywood thrill punches. A revolver duel up and down steel runways in the engine room is the climaxing highlight. It is an exciting episode.

SENSE OF HUMOR

Edmund Lowe, the suave one, gives a likeable performance as the gambler. Though you never see him gamble, he displays charming manners and cool wits and spends his time minding other peoples business. And he has such a nice and sophisticated sense of humor!

Jean Hersholt makes an impressive study of the old lens grinder. Myrna Loy, Greta Nissen and Lois Moran satisfy in leading feminine roles. And Billy Bevan brightens up the affair as a gabbing philosophical steward.

Clergy Would Oust Cleveland Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1 (AP).—Petitions asking the ousting of Sheriff John M. Sulzmann as sheriff of Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) were being circulated today by the Methodist District Conference and the Methodist Ministerial Association.

It was disclosed yesterday that a committee of clergymen and laymen had prepared evidence of gambling at race tracks. Members of the committee said tickets on horses had been purchased and held as evidence.

Mons. Duval Show Boat Funster

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Camille" is being presented by Capt. Menke's Golden Rod thespic crew at Montrose on the Allegheny this week. One of the Messrs. Dumas, either Pere or Fils, wrote "Camille" and called it "La Dame Aux Camelias." One of its morals is don't neglect a cough. Many noted stage dames have played the hectic-cheeked Lady of the Camelias, and we'll wager none of them were better coughers than the Mlle. Camille who emotes for Capt. Menke this week, if ever twanged a better guitar as a "between-acts specialty."

They may have been better emoters, but coughing a good hacking cough is something else again. Also the guitar—count that as well and our Camille can hold up her head with any of them. That is, of course, until the time comes for it to droop, as it ever does in Act IV, when death comes as a welcome relief for both Camille and the audience.

For a time last night we thought we were not going to like this "Camille." The lady, herself, seemed too sincerely obsessed with the idea of making a tragedy of the play, but heaven be thanked, some of the other characters wouldn't permit it. Especially Mons. Duval. Mons. is the chap that Dumas Pere—or was it Fils?—induced to go to Mlle. Camille and beg her to let his son, Armand, out of her clutches so that his family honor would not be besmirched by the scandalous alliance. Mons. just didn't care what pathos Pere or Fils may have written into the scene. So he turned it into comedy. Good old Mons!

Next week, "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

With Vic Faust playing Joe Morgan.

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

Is fan mail any criterion of the popularity of radio programs? We think not. It's an education to read some of the fan mail received at the five Pittsburgh stations but hardly proper to assume that one feature is any more popular than another because more people write in to comment about it. Fan mail is usually a delusion. Yet many stations regard it as the oracle of approval and point to big mail sacks with the glee of school kids. They spend much time and money to have it read and analyzed . . . and after that's done they are no further ahead than a pig on ice. At downtown studios yesterday we observed the following fan mail tabulations: Lamils Party, 19; Gypsies, 76; Radio's Greatest Lover, 81. Who would say that Carlo Lenar, an almost unknown individual in radio, has more popular appeal than a brilliantly balanced orchestra of 40 musicians? Absurd! Yet that's how fan mail runs. As an exception to the rule we have the Sacred Song feature which is an admittedly superior program drawing a consistently large weekly response. Fan mail has its redeeming virtue in that it furnishes a reliable summary of station coverage and also contains valuable suggestions for the improvement of programs. But beyond that . . .

* * *

Question a Day:

How many employes on the payrolls of local stations? Mrs. V. B. Crafton.

Answer—If you were throwing a party, it would require 307 plates to feed those on the active payrolls. This does not include artists of which there are about 1,200.

* * *

NBC stretches a hand across the sea at 6 o'clock today to pick up the speech of Mayor James J. Walker at the unveiling in Paris of a Memorial in honor of New York's war dead . . . on WCAE locally . . . for exceptional entertainment we recommend Alice Mock and company on KDKA at 9 . . . the Nit Wits on WJAS at 10:30 revive the Floradora Girl.

* * *

Studio Lights

Dave Rubinoff refused to take a cut in salary for his orchestra and so this Sunday is his last performance under the present sponsor . . . his guest, Irene Bordoni, famous French movie star . . . Dave plans to be back on the air in a new period soon . . .

Personal nomination for best line of patter in public—Glenn Riggs, of KDKA . . .

Tampa and His Farm Bakers distributed 50,000 tickets for that gala picnic last Saturday . . .

Grace Mitchell and Peggy Wilhelm start on KDKA next Wednesday night at 7:15 as "20 Fingers of Sweetness" . . .

Paderewski and John Charles Thomas are the greatest box office attractions, says George Engles in his NBC Artists' Bureau report, which reveals that NBC performers received $10,000,000 for outside appearances in the last year . . . the next greatest demand is for Floyd Gibbons, Seth Parker and Rudy Vallee, he declares . . .

Mrs. Rudy Vallee left last night for Santa Monica, Cal., to spend six weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Webb . . . her daddy is chief of police there . . .

Jesse Crawford's half hour organ recitals start on NBC-WCAE Sunday night, September 13 . . .

Kate Smith is to direct her own orchestra of eight men when she replaces "Daddy and Rollo" on CBS . . . the new time is to be Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8:30 . . .

Of 3,000 titles sent Jack and Tony and Pete for their evening KQV broadcast, the fellows selected "The Three Boy Friends," suggested by Catherine Graw . . .

Facilities of "National Radio Week" have been placed at the disposal of President Hoover in his unemployment relief campaign . . .

Business poor? A radio distributor we know was completely out of stock yesterday and had orders on file for two carloads of sets due Friday!

T. L., Brentwood—The Brush Man? Sure he's still on the air. Tune WEAF or WTAM at 9:30 tonight.

Lil Dagover, French movie star, whose physiognomy graced our radio page Sunday, speaks over KDKA tomorrow afternoon at 3 . . .

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—If they think it will provide something novel in the way of entertainment for this blase generation of listeners, the broadcasters are willing to prepare a year for a trans-Atlantic flight: go to the bottom of Davy Jones' locker, hop up into the stratosphere or arrange to have an assortment of red-head blondes and brunettes kissed by an equally varied group of men, just to record the beating of their hearts.

Only a couple of weeks ago the novelty and sensation seekers at Columbia headquarters kept Master Husing out at sea in a gale off the Virginia Capes so as to present radio audiences with the picture of an old freighter being bombed by Army planes.

When the Army failed to find their target, Husing had to be called back to report the Saratoga races, but an announcer was still left on the job so that not one iota of excitement should be missed. The arrangements necessary to make this broadcast possible included keeping an airplane hanging around the fleet. It was considered justified by the chance of returns in the form of hair-raising thrills.

* * *

It was in connection with the Graf Zeppelin's second flight across the ocean that the most elaborate plans to date were laid by the purveyors of news broadcasts. When the Graf was in America first, experiments were make with her radio apparatus to insure co-operation when the time came for the real test. A man was shipped from Europe to America with the dirigible and he kept in constant touch with engineers at his destination. The only reason they weren't able to put the radio operator himself on the air was that he replied in German to all requests to shoot the works, and nobody quite understood what he meant.

Resourcefulness enters into the remote broadcasting business, too. Waiting for another kind of ship the Europa was due, Graham B. Glover found Brooklyn piers covered with a blanket of fog and rain. No one could see anything. Every vessel in the bay was tooting her siren. Glover found a German sailor who had worked on the ship in the Bremen yards and knew her whistle. He received five dollars for giving the announcer a kick on the leg every time he heard the blast of her horn, thus affording the announcer a chance to estimate her approach.

JOHNSON FLAYS HOOVER POLICY

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 1 (United Press).—Governor Sam C. Stewart for Hiram W. Johnson, in a speech packed with bitter personalism and slashing attacks on President Hoover, almost stole the show from nationalists at the pre-convention thunderous opening session of the state convention of the American Legion.

The Republican Senator flayed the administration as "inept" in its handling of the unemployment situation and preached "dangerously inadequate national defense" in both Army and Navy. He said:

"I care not if Morgan chooses to send $200,000,000 for relief of distress in other lands, but if you value our institutions as you did when you took up arms for them, you will say to the international bankers: Feed the peoples beyond the seas if you will, but under providence of God, you shall feed America first."

GUN LAW NETS PISTOL TOTER

Thirty minutes after Pennsylvania's new firearms legislation became effective early today James Hammond, 53 Negro of no home was arrested police say with a 32-caliber pistol protruding from his hip pocket.

Hammond was arrested at Wylie avenue and Fullerton street by Patrolmen Al Geise and John Hudek at 12:30 o'clock.

Arraigned before Magistrate James J. O'Connor in Central Police Court on a suspicious person charge, Hammond was held for court.

The law's operation here was handicapped by failure of application blanks to arrive. Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh ordered them last week after learning the state would not supply them. More than 100 requests for permits have been received.

Sheriff Robert S. Cain issued 27 permits to persons in boroughs and townships up to noon. The third class cities also issued a few. The law does not apply to ordinary hunting firearms.

POOR DIRECTOR CALLED IN QUIZ

H. H. Dixon, Allegheny County poor director, was called before District Attorney Andrew T. Park early today and questioned about alleged irregularities in the board's business methods.

Charges brought against the board by K. William Schuchman, a candidate for one of the poor board nominations against the three incumbents, resulted in Park's action.

The quizzing of Dixon ended shortly before 11 a. m. and Schuchman went before the District Attorney.

Park said he would have a statement to make after his conference with Schuchman.

Maj. J. Clyde Miller and Dr. W. L. Henderson, other members of the board, were before the District Attorney yesterday.

PENN TOWNSHIP POLL CHANGED

A majority of the voters of the Second District, Penn Township, had to journey from two to three and a half miles to cast ballots in the William Penn School, Rosedale, Judge James H. Gray was told in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday. He changed the polling place to the garage of Patrick Young, Center avenue, near Verona, on their petition.

He named Frank Caloerro judge of election in the Fifth District, Thirty-second Ward, succeeding Thomas Loftus, deceased, and Carl W. Lucas judge of election in the Second District, First Ward, Homestead, succeeding John M. Herack, resigned to be a candidate for Homestead Council.

Missing Girl Feared Held Captive at Inn

MISS SARAH MERTON

...aughter Kidnaped, Belief of Mother.

...Missing from her home since last Friday, Miss Sarah Merton, 17, is believed by her mother, Mrs. Mary Ward, of 240 Carrington street, North Side, to be the victim of kidnapers.

According to Mrs. Ward, the girl, sometimes known as "Sally" or "Boots," rushed out the rear door of the house while the mother guarded the front, joined two young men in an automobile and sped away.

One of the men a comparative stranger to both mother and daughter, and known only to Mrs. Ward as "Charlie," had offered the girl employment in a roadhouse about two miles outside the city. The mother has had no word from the girl, and is convinced she is being harbored there.

MISS DOROTHY COOK

PEACE CARAVAN DUE IN CITY

A peace caravan led by Dorothy Cook, which left Hollywood June 21 with Washington as its goal, is scheduled to reach Pittsburgh today.

The caravan, which is obtaining signatures to petitions for international disarmament to be presented to the Geneva conference next February, was to be welcomed by Mayor Kline on the steps of the City-County Building. A public reception will be tendered members of the party tonight in Frick Teachers' Training School, Boquet street, by the Pittsburgh chapter, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

HELPING HAND AIDS CANNING MOVEMENT

Facilities of Building Will Be Lent to Preparing Foodstuffs for Destitute

The Surplus for the Needy Committee, which plans to direct the preservation of excess farm products to help care for the needy of the district throughout the fall and winter, was assured the co-operation of the Helping Hand Association at a meeting of the association's managing committee in the William Penn Hotel yesterday.

The facilities in the association's building will be at the disposal of the new organization, it was agreed. The members of the managing committee are: J. C. Trees, chairman; Harry I. Miller, secretary; J. Rodgers Flannery, Frank Duggan, Leo Altmeyer and Walter Rosenbaum. Miller is the organizer of the Needy Committee.

MRS. RAUH GIVES SUPPORT

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, indorsing the movement, said:

"Any effort in the direction of conserving the over supply of vegetables and fruit for feeding those who appeal to the various family welfare agencies in the city, should receive the highest praise and unqualified support. Every public-spirited, warm-hearted, generous citizen of the community should give toward making this beneficient undertaking an unqualified success. My whole heart is in this movement."

FORM COMMITTEE

Plans are being completed by Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., for the formation of a woman's committee to aid the movement. Mrs. Thaw accepted the chairmanship of the woman's committee.

All charitable societies and organizations were being asked to co-operate.

The organization, conducted on a no-cost basis, is under the direction of Attorney Harry I. Miller, one of the founders of the Helping Hand, and the Rev. Alexander Gibson, a director of that institution. It plans to supervise the collection, canning and distribution of the foodstuffs. The facilities for canning are being arranged by the committee.

CONFECTIONERY AT 2236 FORBES STREET AFTER THE FIRST FLOOR CRASHED TO CELLAR

TWO BUILDINGS DAMAGED BY FLAMES

Man Saves Wife and Children From Second-Floor Rooms; Loss Estimated at $7,000

Four firemen were overcome by smoke and cut slightly by glass while battling a two-alarm fire which broke out in the basement of a two-story frame building at 236 Forbes street, and spread to adjoining structures, shortly before 1 a. m. today.

They were John Posnik, of 305 Fifty-seventh street, of Engine No. 5; William E. Kane, of 4631 Winterburn street, and John Ryan, of 515 Coyne terrace, of Engine No. 58, and Edward Mulvaney, of 1923 Sidney street, of Engine No. 12.

The flames started in the basement of the building, the first floor of which is occupied by Joseph Witskay, who conducts a confectionery, and Earl Mitri, a fruit dealer.

Robert Davis assisted his wife, Theresa, and their two children, Robert, 12, and Edward, 9, to the street from their second-floor apartment.

The flames had spread to an adjoining building at 2238 Forbes street.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith estimated the damage at $7,000.

PRODUCE SALES PLAN OPPOSED

Produce dealers in Pittsburgh, through the National League of Commission Merchants, are expected to play an important part in seeking changes in the agricultural marketing act administered by the Federal Farm Board, it was revealed today. George Lafbury and Chester Franzell, of Pittsburgh, are officers of the National League, which is seeking to determine the organization's attitude toward the marketing act.

Robert F. Blair, of Cleveland, president of the league has sent out a letter in which it is indicated the league is not reconciled to the finance provision of the law in question.

It was explained by Mr. Lafbury the league is not antagonistic to the Farm Board, but that the national organization is opposed to the revolving fund set up by the government to be used in forming new co-operative agencies or merging with others.

MRS. FREEMAN RITES TODAY

Funeral services were to be held today for Mrs. Adele Shaw Freeman, wife of Jonathan Whitehouse Freeman, of 5023 Castleman street, who died yesterday in Sewickley, where she was spending part of the summer. The services were to be held at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Adele M. Shaw, 870 Thorn street, Sewickley, and burial was to be in the Sewickley Cemetery.

Mrs. Freeman was born in old Allegheny and was educated at the Thurston School, at St. Margaret's School, Waterbury, Conn., and at the University of Pittsburgh. She spent several years abroad and upon her return to the United States, she became active in social service work, becoming a member of the Pittsburgh Survey. She later became attached to the editorial staff of the Survey magazine in New York and at one time was its managing editor.

She then joined the staff of the New York Evening Post as assistant managing editor, contributing articles on industrial and educational subjects, traveling in South American countries for her information. After her marriage in 1924 she moved to Pittsburgh.

Besides her husband and mother, she leaves a son, Jonathan W. Freeman, Jr.; two brothers, John Frazier Shaw, of Tonpanga, Cal., and D. Minard Shaw, of Philadelphia, and a sister, Miss Cornelia Shaw, of Sewickley.

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 3; measles, 1; mumps, 1; whooping cough, 1, and pneumonia, 7.

Woman Sues Mate On Desertion Charge

Mrs. Mercedes Walsh, 4823 Liberty avenue, asked a divorce from Francis R. Walsh, 459 South Atlantic avenue, in Common Pleas Court, charging desertion, January 5, 1927. They were married November 26, 1924.

Plunge Wrecks Car, Police Hunt Driver

Police were seeking the driver of an automobile which plunged down a hill into a ravine near East Carson street and Riverton Junction, early today. They believe the occupants escaped injury. The owner is Lelia Killmeyer, 98 Steuben street, police asserted.

North Side Woman Robbed of $250 Ring

Mrs. Margaret Rice, of 201 East Ohio street, North Side, reported to police that a man employed by her to clean windows in her apartment had disappeared with a diamond ring valued at $250.

The Price Electric Company, rear of 526 Galveston avenue, North Side, was entered some time during the night, according to a police report. The thieves took 19 cases of electric light bulbs valued at $175.

Aged Lay Brother Tells Of Flying Wedge Days On Football Field

Work went on as usual for Brother Ammon Peitz at Duquesne University today as he entered his fifty-first year of service in the Brotherhood of the Holy Ghost. Brother Ammon, who is in his 73rd year, appears to be no more than 50 as he works on the Duquesne campus, repairing any article that demands his attention.

Brother Ammon, who was one of the first football players in the Pittsburgh district, eagerly awaits the return of his boys next week for early season practice. He recalled today his games against the "Wups," as the Western University of Pennsylvania, now Pitt, was called. He said:

"I didn't know a thing about the game, but they insisted that I play for the Holy Ghost team. I was pretty strong in those days and they put me at the point in the flying wedge. I would always take out about three men but we never did win from the Western University of Pennsylvania. The game is different today. They don't need the strong men they used in the games of long ago."

The Rev. M. A. Heber, former president of Duquesne, delivered the address at the exercises yesterday in honor of the golden jubilee anniversary of Brother Ammon.

MOTHER-IN-LAW SUED FOR BALM

Charging his mother-in-law, Mrs. Alice Wenzel, of Springdale, alienated the affections of his wife, George Darrall, garage owner of Springdale, filed suit in Common Pleas Court, seeking $50,000 damages.

He married Mabel Pearl Wenzel October 1, 1919, and they lived happily with their son James, 11, until August 8 last, when his wife left him, Darrall averred. He asserted Mrs. Wenzel tried for a long time to separate them and finally persuaded her daughter to leave him. Mrs. Wenzel threatened to ruin his garage and automobile repair business and accomplished a decrease in his business, he charged.

Police Hunt Boy, 12, Missing from Home

State, county and city police have been enlisted in the search for Howard R. Eberly, 12, who has been missing from his Youngwood home more than a week.

The boy left home to spend several days with friends in New Stanton. He is described as 5 feet 2 inches tall, with blue eyes and light bushy hair. He was wearing overalls and a blue shirt at the time of his disappearance.

15 Gallons of Rum Seized With Truck

Prohibition agents early today stopped a truck in Larimer avenue, arrested the driver and confiscated three five-gallon cans of moonshine, they reported. The driver, held for violating the prohibition laws, said he was John P. Lucas, 36, of 6200 Butler street, the agents said.

WORKERS JOIN WELFARE DRIVE

Volunteers are being enlisted for Allegheny County's biggest welfare drive, with a goal of $5,000,000, A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund, said today.

Of the tentative budget, $2,000,000 is desired. Oliver said, for community welfare and $3,000,000 for relief of unemployment needs "through a work program already tested." He continued:

"The budget represents an increase of nearly 300 per cent over the amount raised last year. It is the very least on which to do the job adequately."

"In order to raise the full amount, we need a similar increase in contributions all along the line. We are confident that the corporations, leaders and people of wealth in Allegheny County will respond to this local emergency with increased support and set the pace for the whole community."

For Prosperity, Borrow Plenty And Long Enough

-By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER-

Andy Mellon finally got a good slant on the prosperity puzzle.

He's going to borrow a billion dollars and postpone the whole thing 20 years.

We won't have to pay until 1951. And by that time the only thing left of this generation will be its thumbprints.

These new bonds will gather interest at the amazing speed of 3 per cent. We can do better than that at the cigar store around the corner. They give 6 per cent and let you bring your own dice.

This loan matures five administrations from now and pulverizes all Washington tradition. The slogan down there has always been:

"Make it tough for the next President."

Wilson did it to Harding. Harding did it to Coolidge and Coolidge—well, if this be treason, help yourself to another slice.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Not much news over the weekend as we look at news nowadays. Flood in China drowned a million; we take that with as little concern as a New York gang killing or the 50 people killed in autos over the week-end. Mr. Mellon is today's headliner — borrowing $1,100,000,000 at 3 per cent. Could have got it at about 1½ but wanted to give the boys a break. This means they are going to finance by borrowing instead of increasing taxes of those able to pay. Its too close to election to antagonize the big boys.

Yours, WILL.

Will Rogers

Crews of 9 Police Cars Quell Riot in Soho

It took three patrolmen and crews of two patrol wagons, three radio cars, three motorcycles and a detective speed car to quell a free-for-all brawl in Tustin street, near Moultrie street, early today.

The three patrolmen, who answered the first summons, said they found seven white men and two Negroes engaged in the battle. A crowd of 500 rapidly grew and, according to the police, showed a willingness to mix in the brawl.

A riot call went into the police radio station, the reinforcements arrived and the nine original fighters were arrested.

Set Cornerstone of Huge Pumping Plant Tomorrow

City officials and district engineers will officiate at cornerstone laying exercises at the new $900,000 Brilliant pumping station, rear Aspinwall, tomorrow at 2 p. m., with James H. Kennon, managing engineer of the city Water Bureau, as master of ceremonies. Council President John S. Herron, a former bricklayer, will wield a trowel, setting the massive stone in place.

The new station, to be electrically-operated, will replace the present steam-driven station erected in 1875.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, Mayor Charles H. Kline, Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board, and Councilmen Robert Garland and Harry A. Little will speak.

Garland will seal the records into the stone.

The new station will have a total capacity of 160,000,000 gallons daily, according to Kennon. Equipment will consist of four 28,000,000-gallon centrifugal pumps driven by 2,250-horse power motors; two 24,000,000 gallon pumps driven by 1,500-horse power motors, and motor control equipment of steel push button type cubicles. High tension equipment will be housed in separate quarters of the plant.

The setup, according to Kennon, will be one of the largest installations in the nation.

MIND CAN LEARN IN SLEEP, SAYS SCIENTIST

Multiplication Tables Taught To Slumbering Children, Teachers' Institute Told

Contact with the subconscious mind of a sleeping child or adult can be utilized as a powerful influence, even to the extent of teaching a child multiplication tables, according to the theory advanced by Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, chemical research consultant, one of the principal speakers on the five-day institute program of Allegheny County Teachers at Memorial Hall.

Dr. Jones today was addressing the 2,600 teachers on the subject of "Science and the Future." Appearing also on the program were Dr. F. B. Bryan, president of Ohio University, Athens, O.; Dr. William H. Burton of the University of Chicago, and Miss Helena McCray, supervisor of health education, State Department of Public Instruction. The institute opened yesterday and continues through Friday morning.

DESCRIBES SLEEP TEACHING

The method of influencing the subconscious mind is emphasized as an important step toward building habits and character, according to Dr. Jones. Describing the method he said:

"A mother can imbed character and thoughts in the child's mind nightly reading it to sleep. When the child slumbers, she carries on a 30-minute conversation expressing the lesson she desires the subconscious mind to absorb. Nightly repetition of the multipication table would result in the child unconsciously learning to multiply."

HARRIS URGES COURT CHANGES

Three changes in court procedure all designed to the present congestion in the Court of Common Pleas, were advocated by Burt Harris, candidate for Republican nomination as Judge of County Court, in a speech at the East End Independent headquarters, 5601 Penn avenue, last night.

Harris' plans would shift certain cases now under jurisdiction of Common Pleas Court into County Court. His suggestions are:

1. Confer jurisdiction in divorce cases to County Court, thereby relieving the Common Pleas Judge.

2. Permit County Court Judges to sit in the Quarter Sessions Court, thereby obviating the necessity of calling in judges from other counties.

3. Increase the present jurisdiction of the County Court in civil actions from those involving $1,500 or less to $2,500, thereby relieving the Common Pleas Court of a second mass of work and affording it an opportunity to bring its dockets up to date.

Armstrong Rally Set for Pitcairn

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally meeting in the Pitcairn High School auditorium tomorrow night. Other county and local candidates will speak. W. R. Bergett, chairman of the Republican Committee of Pitcairn, will preside.

PLAN TO SPEED COURT GIVEN BY ASPIRANT

Urges Change in System of Review; Other Judgeship Candidates Push Drives

Addressing Republican workers of the Thirty-second Ward in Central Junior High School last night, Attorney Frarnk A. Piekarski, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, explained a plan for speeding litigation in the civil courts and clearing the docket. The speaker said:

"Common Pleas Court can do away with much of the present delay by changing the system of our review court. At present the necessary operations performed by this branch consume about five months yearly. The whole court works 11 months. On the civil side, this means about 26 weeks for jury trials. The other 20 weeks of the judicial year are used by the review court.

"My plan is to let this review court sit every Saturday morning during the congestion and an hour every Monday morning. Let them sit at least 45 weeks each year and more if needed. They will handle all matters of review and then consider, make decisions and write opinions. Every week they will fill their calendar and completely clean it up within a week."

BACKS BAR OPINION

Qualifications of a judge for Common Pleas bench can best be estimated by the opinion passed by lawyers in a referendum held by the Allegheny County Bar Association, Judge Samuel H. Gardner declared yesterday in a speech in Penn Township.

Judge Gardner is one of the seven present Judges of Common Pleas Court running to succeed themselves. The others are Ambrose B. Reid, W. Heber Dithrich, S. J. Snee, Joseph Stadtfeld, J. P. Egan and W. H. McNaugher. Judge Gardner said:

"Judicial candidates who failed to receive favorable recognition in the lawyers' referendum have persistently tried to throw up smokescreens to hide their failure to receive indorsement.

"Individual lawyers, perhaps letting their better judgement be swayed by their ambition for office, have attacked the present judges, not on our records in office or our qualifications, or our characters, but on an issue totally foreign to the actual requisites of a good judge."

EWING RAPS JUDGES

William M. Ewing, candidate for Common Pleas Court, issued a statement yesterday answering a letter sent to registered nurses by Joseph Bialas, chairman of the lawyers' committee supporting the seven present judges. He stated:

"I contend that the work of at least five of the present sitting judges does not bear out statements set forth in the letter. Can a judge administer justice fearlessly and conscientiously in matters which come before him while directly or indirectly aligning himself with groups or places operated in violation of the law, thereby encouraging, rather than discouraging, conditions about which the public at large is vitally interested?"

LINDSAY LAUDED

C. S. Lamb, secretary of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, has issued a statement expressing appreciation of the character of Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court. He declared:

"I know Alexander Lindsay as neighbor, friend and comrade for 25 years. There is no man who has more deeply stamped himself in my life, who has commanded greater admiration and confidence. He is pure gold. I know his fine loyalty to principle. He believes what he says and I believe in him. He is not living one kind of life and pretending another."

Joseph H. Reich, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, addressed meetings last night at Leetsdale High School and Langley High School. Warren H. Van Kirk, former U. S. District Attorney, broadcast over WWSW last night in behalf of the candidacy of Attorney Reich.

DUFF URGES REFORM

A thorough understanding of the cause of human behavior is an essential far more important to an aspirant for the judiciary than a perfection of knowledge in the theory of law, said Assistant U. S. District Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, in a statement issued today in his Fifth avenue headquarters.

Speaking at a meeting of citizens in his Braddock headquarters, Attorney J. Boyd Duff, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, referred to the futility of the present procedure of the court which was reacting against its sponsors and said:

"Is it not foolish to rely longer upon outmoded procedure which thus nullifies good, honest, hard work. Modern methods will speedily reverse, and correct this vicious condition."

Glassport Attorney Indorses Mansfield

Attorney Samuel A. Weiss of Glassport, has issued a statement indorsing the candidacy of State Senator William D. Mansfield for County Commissioner on the grounds of his character and his record as a public servant. He said:

"The nomination and election of W. D. Mansfield as County Commissioner will do more to restore the confidence in the conduct of our county government than any wholesale clean up or open investigation by various civic organization and citizen groups."

Two Engineers Sad As Long Careers At Throttle Close

THOMAS J. CROCK — LEAVING ON LAST RUN AFTER 50 YEARS

Veterans Quit After Honors on Last Runs

Two well-known engineers today were set to hang up the throttle of their locomotives on the Pennsylvania railroad, both retiring veterans after completing many years of service.

When Thomas J. Crock Greensburg of the Pennsylvania Railroad pulled the Uniontown Express into the Uniontown Station he completed 50 years and two months consecutive service with the railroad.

Supt. F. L. Dobson gave Crock his final clearance orders as the veteran engineer started exactly on time for his last run. Crock, who reached his seventieth birthday August 14, was allowed to do it the month before he was retired. He has taken many crack trains over their courses establishing both time and punctuality record.

Before he started on his last run the members of the crew who have been his associates for many years presented him with a gift and the officials of the road congratulated him on his record. He said:

"Railroading has certainly changed since I started. The old-timers are slowly dying out and younger men are taking their places."

As William Robeson, 70 of Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks brought his engine into the station to complete his last run he was met by a group of fellow workmen and company officials who greeted him as he retired. He is the second oldest engineer in point of service on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie.

Rule on entered the railroad's service in 1899 a fireman. For 18 years he has been a passenger engineer.

Council Candidate Urges Free Parking

Free automobile parking on city-owned downtown property is one of the planks in the platform of Max C. B. Shaffer, candidate for City Council according to a statement issued today from his William Penn Hotel headquarters. He declared:

"The city's present policy of charging the public for parking on public wharves seems to me a bit of brazen effronteryy, particularly in view of the fact that no careful checkup of receipts is apparent."

SUPPORT ASKED BY MANSFIELD AT MEETING

Armstrong Man Becomes Indignant at Story of Coyne-McGovern Alliance

Herman Carletti, an employe of the County Department of Public Works, lauded Joseph G. Armstrong's two terms as County Commissioner, at a meeting last night in the headquarters of W. A. Means, who is a candidate to succeed himself as alderman of the Twelfth Ward.

State Senator William D. Mansfield, the only other candidate for County Commissioner present solicited support from those that examined his record for public service and found therein justification for electing him.

SCORES AIRPORT CRITIC

Carletti was silent on any possible hookup between Armstrong and Mansfield, but he was indignant at a reported denunciation of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and State Senator James J. Coyne, for the two majority commissioner-ships. Carletti said:

"While another Commissioner sat back and criticized what he called the $2,500,000 airport mud hole, which in reality is one of the finest airports in the world, Armstrong went ahead on a gigantic construction program and relieved unemployment in a period of depression.

"The other, the Moses that appeared to want to lead us out of the wilderness, sat back and did nothing. I wish Coyne was here to hear what he would have to say. I would like to ask him about a conference he had with McGovern for about two hours last Thursday in the Pittsburgher Hotel and a meeting he had previously with McGovern's campaign manager, C. M. Barr."

RECENT CONVERT

Carletti is a recent convert to the Armstrong cause. He followed a number of other adherents of former State Senator M. G. Lucas into the camp of James F. Malone when the latter made a futile attempt in 1929 to defeat Mayor Kline for re-election. Carletti's friend, John A. Fugazzi, was a candidate for Coroner on the Malone ticket.

Carletti and all the Malone camp followers were deserted at Armstrong's call when he declared for Kline about five days before the primary.

Councilman Harry A. Estep, broadcasting over KDKA last night, urged the re-election of Armstrong so that the county improvement program might not be stopped.

Attorney Charles G. Lane, Jr., will be one of the speakers on the "Old Gray Mare" program to be broadcast at 8:30 tonight over KDKA. Music will be by Jack Fox, the "Hill Billy Boy."

Policeman Wounded In Gun Battle Dies

DENVER, Col., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Patrolman William Keating died late last night from bullet wounds he received yesterday in attempting to arrest two Gary, Ind., youths for questioning.

B. & O. Labor Group Supports Musmanno

The candidacy of Representative M. A. Musmanno for Judge of County Court was indorsed yesterday by Local Federation No. 10, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad System Federation No. 30, according to R. W. Reilly, secretary of the local federation.

Reilly stated that Musmanno has been indorsed by Machinist Union No. 491, Railway Carmen Union No. 732, Boilermakers Union No. 318, Sheet Metal Workers Union No. 498, Blacksmith Union No. 262, Electrical Workers Union No. 1024, and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers No. 843.

McGrath Addresses Wall Borough Group

The candidacy of John J. McGrath for Judge of County Court has been indorsed by the American Citizens Association of Wall Borough. Speaking to the members, McGrath declared the increasing volume of litigation in Juvenile Court branch eventually will compel a separate court for those cases.

Numerous Cracks and Pimples on Baby's Legs. Healed by Cuticura.

"After my baby was born I was shocked to see numerous cracks and pimples on his legs. They seemed very sore and baby was fretful. Water irritated them and made them itchy. I gave him no chance to scratch by keeping them well covered all the time.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I bathed him with warm water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Ointment, and after using two cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. F. Rowland Brown, 224 S. # Foster Cites Record In Children's Cases

Judge D. Paulson Foster of County Court, candidate to succeed himself, last night told members of the Pauline Mothers' Club at Swissvale that the Women's Joint Committee on Delinquency had misrepresented his record in the Juvenile Court branch.

Some of the parents, Foster said, object to hearings critical to all but children's names to be published in daily papers in connection with delinquencies and advising that children should not be dealt with as criminals but as persons in whose welfare and welfare the citizens particularly interested.

COYNE TO SEEK TAX REDUCTION

Emphasizing his opposition to any increase in county taxes and pledging his efforts to reduce, he present levy, State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, addressed a citizens meeting last night in American Legion Hall, Sheepshead. He said:

"Although in all my public statements I have been emphasizing the obligation of all public officials to co-operate to the full extent of available resources in an effort to prevent hardship and suffering among the unemployed during the winter I want it understood that I do not for a moment minimize other important issues that will confront the men who constitute the Board of County Commissioners next year.

"First of all, I want to go on record as being vigorously opposed to any increase in county taxes and I further pledge myself to endeavor to bring about a reduction of the cost of county government. The burden on the home-owner and the property holder must be lightened."

VOTERS TO HEAR PHILLIPS

Councilman John M. Phillips of Carrick, manufacturer and leader in outdoor recreational activities, particularly those for youths, who is a candidate to succeed himself, is scheduled to speak Friday night at a meeting of the Fifth Ward Voters League in the People's Tabernacle, Remaine street near Center avenue. Oscar De Priest, Negro Congressman from Illinois, is expected to make an address.

The Fifteenth Ward Italian Political Club of which Joseph Abate is president, with headquarters at Odd Fellows Hall, Second and Hoeart avenues has indorsed Councilman Phillips for another term and will continue to campaign for his nomination in the Republican primary, September.

SKIBO GREATS OF YESTERYEAR INSPECT NEW TALENT

Former Carnegie Tech grid stars appeared in the roles of spectators as the new crop of Tartan footballers began training activities at the Tech Bowl yesterday. John Dreshar, Joe Morrito, Leonard Schnupp, Ted Rosenzweig and John Karcis, much in the spotlight last season, displayed a lively interest in the activities of the stalwarts who are to fill their shoes. The Skibo coaches surprised everyone except themselves by including scrimmage on the opening day program. Charles Ewing performed as a halfback and was on the receiving end of many attempted forward passes. Not all of the passes clicked, as the above picture indicates. Murray Armentrout, veteran halfback shown skirting right end, is being groomed to do much of the ball carrying.

PIRATES TURN DOWN DEAL FOR HACK

WHILE THE ADMISSION of Owner William Wrigley, Jr., that he means to dispose of Hack Wilson this coming winter is the last official word that has been forthcoming on the subject, the announcement that the sometimes slugging outfielder will not be with the Cubs next year causes not the slightest surprise among baseball followers. That Wilson was on the block and would not be retained for any greater length of time than was required to get rid of him became an open secret many weeks ago.

The action of Manager Hornsby in benching Wilson several times and admitting that Hack's work was far from being satisfactory to those who were paying $30,000 a year for it would have been enough in itself to show which way the wind was blowing. But on top of that, it became known before the trading period closed that efforts were actually being made to swing a trade for the burly West Virginian. It was only because no other club could be induced to give up a star player for him that a deal was not consummated at that time.

Hack Wilson

ONE OF THE attempts to dispose of Wilson is said to have centered on the Philadelphia club. It was thought that Baker Bowl might be to Hack's liking, but Phillies' officials are reported to have informed Chicago that they were trying to build a winning team and that Wilson was not the type of player they wanted.

Rumors that Wilson and two other Cubs and $150,000 are to go to the Phillies for Chuck Klein and Pinkey Whitney probably mean only that such an offer has been made by Chicago. It is hard to believe that the new Phillie officials would consider such a proposal. It would be a fine deal for the Cubs, admittedly, but would wreck what remains of the Phils.

FROM A STANDING standpoint, even if the Phillies were willing to give up Klein and Whitney, Wilson would be of little help to the Quakers. The Phillies, of course, expect to take full advantage of the [illegible]

It would be a bad day for baseball or the National League if any strengthen the Phillies to such an extent as to make them look like a serious pennant threat, and Baker Bowl is already weak enough.

THEY'RE CLAIMING A RECORD for Walter Gautreau, former infielder of the Braves now with the Montreal International League club, because he drew five bases on balls in a recent game against Baltimore, but that mark has been beaten, even in the majors. On August 22, 1891, Walter Wilmot set a record that still stands unequaled by drawing six walks. Fourteen other major league players have received five passes in a game, including Gus Suhr, of the Pirates, who in a game at Chicago on April 29 last year, was walked three times by Fred Blake, once by Malcom Moss and once by Heimach.

Muddy Ruel

THOUGH IT WAS reported some time ago that Bucky Harris was on the [illegible] board as manager of the Detroit Tigers and that Dopie Rush might succeed him next year, the Muddy Ruel-Marty McManus waiver trade would appear to indicate that Harris feels pretty secure about his job.

Ruel, nearing 36, is said to be almost done as a catcher, but is looked upon in some quarters as good managerial timber and is reported to have aspirations in that direction. Harris hardly would have taken on a veteran with such ambitions unless he knew his own position to be safe. That is, if Harris himself, and not the Detroit owners, made the deal.

IF THE BOSTON management had been as eager [illegible] to do without the services of Harris as it [illegible] to be rid of Ruel, in making the deal for McManus, Muddy would have been a Pirate this season.

Feeling that a veteran catcher of Ruel's ability would help the local club, the Buccaneer chiefs tried to buy the backstop from Washington, but it was impossible to get him out of the American League because the Red Sox refused to waive.

THE NOTRE DAME style of football looms as such a threat to Southern California this year that the coast school has taken Aubrey Devine from his berth as freshman coach and assigned him to work exclusively with the varsity. Among Southern California's opponents this fall, St. Mary's, Oregon State, Washington and Georgia, in addition to the Irish themselves, employ the Rockne shift, and there is a possibility that California also may go in for that style of play. Devine has coached the Irish a month at a time for several years, and Coach Howard Jones considers him better qualified than any other man available to teach the Trojans how to combat the system.

BILLY RHIEL, product of Youngstown, O., still leads in the race for the batting championship of the Pacific Coast League with a mark of .380 for 118 games, 12 points ahead of his nearest rival, Frank Cox, of Seattle. Bill Bierkel, Mission catcher purchased by Pittsburgh, is hitting .277 for 102 games.

Frank Shellenback has just suffered his fourth defeat of the season. The Hollywood spitballer still leads the league in percentage with 22 victories against his four defeats, but Frank Gibson, of San

KAUFFMANN'S 68 BEST IN CITY PLAY

By VERN SWARTSAGER

[illegible] Kauffmann, [illegible] of the National golf [illegible] City championship in [illegible] years to get [illegible] the low medal score, a 68 [illegible] 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round at the Schenley Park municipal course today. Kauffmann was out in 36, three more than par, with a bad 6 on the east par 4 ninth hole. He returned in 32, one under par, to get his 68.

Mac Gunn, who qualified with Kauffmann for this year's Pittsburgh National public links team, was second place with more than two-thirds of the field in, with a 69.

Two were tied at 70, Tom Pastorius and Tom Barr, the scratch man. H. Zell and Dave Wilner ran 71, and P. J. O'Malley and Joe Platt were tied with 72s.

Another member of this year's national public links team, Frank Ball, was tied with G. Stille at 74. There were four 75 scores with the first non-qualifier, J. Platt, [illegible] Turner and V. Rizzo [illegible] that figure.

Andy Szeszko, another member of the local National public links team, turned a 69 to tie Gaudo for second place.

Dr. C. S. Blackburn, runner-up in the Altoona Country Club championship several weeks ago, tied with Kauffmann for the lead at 68, but [illegible] one to [illegible] two [illegible]. The cards of the leaders:

SHIELDS LEADS IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP.)—Dr. Oscar F. Willing, of Portland, Ore., former finalist and Walker Cup star, apparently today shot away his chances of qualifying in the National Amateur golf championship by scoring 79 for his second round, making a 36-hole total of 159.

Temporary leadership went to Johnny Shields, of Seattle, who added a 76 to his first round of 75 for a total of 151.

Watts Gunn, of Pittsburgh, runner-up to Bobby Jones in 1925, blew himself quickly out of the picture, taking a weird 10 at the 590-yard eleventh as a concluding gesture. Gunn had 82 yesterday and was out in 42 to dispose of his qualifying chances.

VOIGT SAFELY IN

Willing's companion, George Voigt, of New York, another favorite, came in with a 77 and a total of 155 that looked safe enough, though close to the border line.

Voigt and Willing started the second round in a downpour of rain and finished their tour of the soggy links in murky weather with the sun breaking through.

The Portland dentist made a game attempt to salvage his first round of 80, but lost valuable strokes on two short holes, the sixth and seventeenth, where his tee shots plumped into traps half filled with water. At the long eighteenth, Willing came within two inches of holing an 80-yard pitch shot for an eagle 3 and tapped his ball in for his only birdie.

WESTLAND LATE STARTER

Jack Westland, of Chicago, the first day's leader, with a 72, was a late starter.

Francis Ouimet, the veteran Bostonian, hooked into trouble on the fourth and sixth holes, losing two strokes to par on each as he went out in 40, four over par. He had a good margin of safety, however, with his 74 of yesterday.

DEAN MOST VALUABLE

[illegible] Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—[illegible] Dean, Beaumont pitcher who was sent back to Houston this year by the St. Louis Cardinals, has been chosen the most valuable player in the Texas League. The selection was made by sports writers.

PHILS BEAT SENATORS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia National League baseball team defeated the local members of the new York Pennsylvania League, 5 to 3, here yesterday in an exhibition game.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—I see Babe Ruth is willing to retire in 1933. If I made Babe's dough I would retire right now and throw away the alarm clock key. But Babe plays for the love of the game. That's where he differs from me. Personally, I would rather be night watchman in a brewery than Babe Ruth and Lefty Grove combined.

Nick Altrock

Say, maybe we aren't tired of doubleheaders. When you're working all afternoon it cuts in on your crap shooting something fierce. If they pile up any more we're all going to join the American Federation of Labor and demand seven-inning doubleheaders and Saturday afternoons off.

TARTANS RESUME GRID TRAINING GRIND

COACHES SEEK DEPENDABLE PUNTER

By JESS CARVER

A lot of folks won't believe it, but it's a fact that Wally Steffen scrimmaged his Carnegie Tech football squad yesterday, the first day out.

He also started his quest for a punter, and after watching a quartet of possibilities in action, was just about convinced that Capt. Murray Armentrout is going to be the best bet.

The Skibo squad was hard at it again this morning. Coach Steffen, who fooled even Bob Waddell by working the boys hard yesterday, has shifted his training camp plans. Instead of two sessions of equal length daily, he is going to give the boys rough and ready drills in the morning, starting off about 10 o'clock, and then put them back to work at 4:30 in the afternoon for some less strenuous scrambling.

DRESHAR SMART

The Jedge's ideas may be a bit new and startling, but then, look how they laughed at the airplane. After watching the squad sweating and straining in yesterday morning's scrimmage, John Dreshar, who captained the Plaid in '29 and '30, remarked:

"I see where I got out at exactly the right time."

Personally, I am interested in seeing how the Jedge and Bob, or Bob and the Jedge, come along in their search for a punter. They haven't had a consistent booter since Howard Harpster left. Yesterday Stuart Dueger, who may play quarterback; Vorderburg, the fullback prospect and Croft, hefty sophomore tackle practiced booting 'em with Armentrout. Armentrout needs most to develop consistency.

MUNHALL BUSY

Today's schedule probably won't be as tough as was yesterday's. The boys were pretty well used up when the session was over.

Trainer Bert Munhall and his new assistant, Joe (Morvold) Sabito, last year's fullback, were no other than a five-and-ten-cent store basement soothing the pants of heroes.

Time Out

Luby DiMeolo, former Pitt guard star, and a new double-breasted blue flannel suit left last night for New York, where Luby will assist Chick Meehan with his New York University varsity and the new suit will break hearts on "Avenue Fifi."

Wash-Jeff and Western Reserve will clash in Cleveland November 21. The game was arranged yesterday, thus completing the Presidents' card for the season.

Dick Jones, former South Hills High School football, basketball and baseball star and ace-catcher for the Black nine of the C. and I. League is a fullback candidate at Howard Harpster's Geneva College training camp at Beaver Falls.

Books and Dormont To Replay Ball Game

At a special meeting of the City League last evening President Harry Yerx ordered a replay of the Book-Dormont game at Dormont tomorrow evening.

This game ended abruptly last Sunday evening when Umpire Ahearn banished Player Collins, of the Book team. Collins tangled with Player While, of Dormont, and insisted that the latter also be ordered from the game.

When this was not done Book refused to continue and Umpire Ahearn forfeited the game.

As a result of the sub-par 70 which Johnny Lehman turned in in the second round today, Jack Westland, of Chicago, who was out in front with a 72 at the finish of the first 18-hole qualifying round in the National Amateur tourney yesterday, faced a stiff fight for medalist honors. Westland was a late starter today.

At the Alcoma Country Club today, Mrs. W. H. Hochberg and Mrs. H. T. Patton are playing a 36-hole match for the club championship.

Tomorrow an exceptionally large field will play in the Wildwood Country Club invitation mixed foursome tourney, according to latest data from Nelson Zimmerman, the home pro. More than 275 players had made reservations yesterday.

Shern Roni, of the Castle Shannon Golf Club, who has been a prize-winner in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's William Randolph Hearst tourney for the last three years, and who finished second with a 68 in this year's event at Schenley Park, yesterday won the individual championship in the West Penn Golf Association caddie tourney at the Highland Country Club when he won a nine-hole playoff by six strokes from Tony Onoretta, of Schenley Park, after they had tied for the honor for the 18-hole test at 76.

The Edgewood Country Club team, through the efforts of Andy (Bambo) Brannigan, Paul Yurigan, Mark Evanish and Stanley Dombroskey, won the coveted John Latta Jamison Memorial Trophy with an aggregate of 323.

LINWOOD SEEKS FRANCHISE IN GRID LOOP

By TOM BIRKS

The newly formed Linwood club, with George McLaren, former Pitt backfield star as coach, made formal application for a berth in the Western Pennsylvania Independent Football Conference yesterday.

Secretary Daily was out of town on Sunday, and could not arrange to be at the first meeting of the conference. Linwood is going to have one of the finest clubs ever, according to Daily. The club held a meeting last evening with 30 players listening to an interesting talk by McLaren.

Substantial support has been given the club and negotiations are under way to acquire a property at the end of the Lincoln avenue car line.

There is some talk of a new club playing on one of the high school grounds at night this fall. The club in question has good backing, and is well situated to play to large crowds.

The fact that the East Pittsburgh Firemen are going to take over the reins of the crack Valley club is good news. Independent parties did not meet with the same success that the organized fire department did. The first meeting of the Firemen will be held in the Borough Hall this evening. All of last season's players should be on hand.

JUNIOR TENNIS EVENT OPENS TOMORROW

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The annual Westmoreland County junior net tourney will get under way on the courts of the Greensburg Country Club tomorrow. The youths' affair will serve as prelude to an extensive card of Tri-State tennis action for September, the third yearly Morgantown Invitation event and the historic Beaver County championships also being set for Friday, and the brand new Greensburg Country Club Invitation trophy chase starting off on Sunday.

The Junior gathering, with sizable field of promising youngsters, including Edgar Carson, semi-finalist last week in the West Penn Boys' title contesting, should bring the 1931 racquet campaign into the home stretch in auspicious fashion.

An interesting point of accuracy is involved in copy emanating from Beaver Falls and Morgantown, statement from the College Hill bailiwick indicating that R. F. Arkle, Wheeling ace, will compete in the Beaver milling, while word received almost simultaneously from West Virginia has it that the Mountaineer blond is primed for hostilities at Morgantown, where he was victor in 1929 and runner-up in 1930.

The probability is that a serious misunderstanding exists somewhere along the line, for it would be manifestly impossible for Arkle to battle at both tournaments.

AMATEUR RING SHOWS ON TONIGHT

Two amateur boxing shows will make up the local fistic program tonight. One show is scheduled at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., North Side, by the Keystone Canoe Club, and the other is at the Maennerchor Hall, Mt. Washington.

Between Rounds

Charley Retzlaff and Joe Sekyra will meet in their show postponed from last week at the Queensboro Stadium, New York, tonight.

Tiger Joe Randall, Elizabeth, Pa., Negro boxer, Paul Ogre of Mountaville, W. Va., in the main bout at East Liverpool tonight.

Jim McGirr will open up the Palisades Rink, McKeesport, to indoor boxing, September 17. He is angling for a pair of middleweights to use in the main bout.

Billy Jones, Negro light-heavyweight star, who resided in the Hill district, before he went to Philadelphia to earn ring prominence, will be back here on Thursday night to tackle a tough customer in Natie Brown, of California, in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park. Jones in his three bouts around here defeated Harold Kearney, knocked out Roxy Rosales and won over Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion of the world. Brown has never showed here before, but total facts read with interest the tough moments he gave Max Schmeling while training the champion for his bout with Stribling at Conneaut Lake Park.

BLUE SUNOCO

THE ONLY TRUE BLUE

SCORES AGAIN!

2.3% to 8.7% greater mileage than seven of the better nationally known, widely advertised motor fuels all selling at 3c more per gallon.

ALLEN H. BLAISDELL
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR
CARNEGIE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

SCHENLEY PARK
PITTSBURGH, PA.

July 8, 1931

Sun Oil Company,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Gentlemen:

The purpose of the economy test recently completed by me was to determine if Blue Sunoco, which sells at regular gas price, actually delivered as many miles per gallon as the better nationally known premium-priced fuels which sell at 3 cents more per gallon.

I found that the consumption of Blue Sunoco was less than that of any of the other fuels tested - which means more miles per gallon on the road.

The results are briefly stated in the following table:

| Brake Horse Power | GASOLINE used | A | B | C | D | BLUE SUNOCO | F | G | H |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 17 | gals. per hour | 2.217 | 2.246 | 2.220 | 2.280 | 2.115 | 2.198 | 2.288 | 2.302 |
| 25 | gals. per hour | 2.848 | 2.727 | 2.725 | 2.800 | 2.617 | 2.728 | 2.677 | 2.742 |

17 Brake Horse Power at 1900 r.p.m. approximates 35 miles per hour on a level road.
25 Brake Horse Power at 1900 r.p.m. approximates 35 miles per hour on an average hill.

This proved that for average road driving Blue Sunoco was from 2.3% to 8.7% more economical than any fuel tested.

Its economy is even more apparent since Blue Sunoco sells for 3 cents less per gallon than the other fuels.

Very truly yours,

A. H. Blaisdell

72+ OCTANE RATING

Octane rating is the new method used by the U. S. Government and approved by the Society of Automotive Engineers to determine the knockless rating of gasolines. Blue Sunoco is 72+. Since automotive engineers agree that an octane rating of over 70 is necessary for satisfactory knockless performance in any high compression motor, Blue Sunoco's rating is more than adequate for any stock automobile.

IN OTHER WORDS

MORE MILES PER GALLON

. . . YET IT SELLS AT REGULAR GAS PRICE

The trend toward cheaper prices has resulted in doubtful quality gasolines of questionable performance. On the other hand, it is not necessary to buy premium priced gasoline to bring out the best that's in your car.

The Sun Oil Company makes but one motor fuel—the premium performing Blue Sunoco whose quality has been boosted again and again . . . yet it sells at regular gas price.

ROCCO AGAIN STOPPED BY GRIFFITHS

By JAMES MILLER

Tuffy Griffiths youthful heavyweight star of Sioux City, Ia., with the fleetness of a lightweight and the kick in his mitts of a dozen army mules, scored his second knockout win over Emmett Rocco, lumbering Ellwood City Italian, when he stopped Rocco in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round main bout at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night. Last year in Detroit Tuffy finished Emmett in two rounds.

It all happened in 38 seconds in the fifth round. Griffiths came out of his corner, circled around Rocco, dabbing him into position for a right hand punch that landed on Emmett's chin. The blow turned Rocco half way around and dropped him flat on his back. Emmett tried to gain a sitting position at the count of seven but he slumped down again for keeps.

Referee Al Grayber and Rocco's seconds dashed water in his face to revive him, but as he left the ring the effects of the punch was still in evidence. He had to be assisted to the dressing room.

DOWN IN FIRST

Griffiths had Rocco on the floor in the first round for a two count and again in the second heat for nine.

In the second round before the knockdown Tuffy raised a bump on Rocco's right temple and also had his eye badly puffed and cut. It was a wide left hook that came out of a mixup near the ropes in Rocco's corner that was responsible for Emmett's trip to the cover this time.

In the third stanza Griffiths stabbed Rocco with his cutting left and belted him to the body with hard rights. A few more rights to the midriff made Rocco hold on for dear life. Griffiths complained to the referee about the death grips Rocco was using.

Tuffy danced and boxed throughout the fourth round, showing the class that teams up with his punching powers.

SCARNEY BEATS WILLIAMS

Harold Scarney of Youngstown, O., defeated Long Tom Williams, Negro heavyweight, in a slow eight-round semi-final. Scarney forced the issue in every round and all Williams displayed was an ability to make the crowd laugh with his funny tactics.

Carl Montesano of Braddock won the decision over Lloyd Clements of Swissvale in the hard-fought second bout. Both judges voted for Montesano and Referee Grayber voted a draw.

Anson Green, Homestead Negro, turned a low punch into a knockout win over Tony Lubino, a clever performer from Lisbon, O., in the opening bout. Lubino was struck low in the third round by a left hook, he dropped his guard in agony and was clipped with a winging right that toppled him for the count. Referee Eddie Kennedy failed to see the blow.

BELMONT, LAWLESS NEXT

Tommy Grant made his debut as a judge with Jock Simco working with him. Kennedy and Grayber alternated as referees and Norman Bowland and Chappie Couch handled the watch. Dr. Ralph Shanor was the commission physician. Ray Eberle was the announcer.

Jimmy Belmont and Bucky Lawless were announced as the main boulders for the Bowl on next Tuesday night. The place will be data on Monday due to Labor Day.

Battalino-Shea Match Arranged

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 1 (AP).—Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion, has agreed to meet Eddie Shea of Chicago at Hurley Stadium here on September 15 in a 10-round non-title fight.

The champion had previously agreed to meet Shea on September 1, but later refused to do so on the ground he needed more time to prepare for the bout.

Shea beat Battalino last January in another non-title fight.

VINES TO PLAY PERRY TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1 (AP).—Ellsworth Vines and Frederick J. Perry, No. 1 players of the United States and England, will meet today in the international round robin tennis tournament on the grass courts of the Germantown Cricket Club, scene of many Davis Cup matches.

Their match will follow that between Marcel Bernard, the youthful French player, and George P. Hughes, captain of the English team.

LOTT AND DOEG LOSE DOUBLES NET TITLE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 1 (AP).—Johnny Doeg and George Lott, who have dominated the national doubles tennis tournament for the past two years, yesterday passed out of the 1931 championship picture.

They were easily beaten by Sidney Wood and Frank X. Shields, Davis Cup youngsters, during the tail-end play of the quarter finals match that was interrupted by rain last Thursday and twice postponed because of wet courts. The scores were 14-16, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

Lott had a better late when he joined Betty Nuthall, of England, with whom he won the 1929 mixed doubles title, and they captured that championship again by defeating the all-America combination of Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, Oakland, Cal., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., 6-3, 6-3. Allison, who won last year's championship with Edith Cross, of San Francisco, dropped his service three times during the match, failures that nullified his partner's steady play.

BUCS PURCHASE PITCHER

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh baseball club, today announced the purchase of Pitcher William M. Harris from the Fort Worth club of the Texas League.

Harris, aged 30, has had both major and minor league experience. He was tested by the Cincinnati Reds when he first broke into the game in 1922.

The Bucs' new hurler bats and throws right-handed. He is 6 feet 1½ inches tall and weighs 185 pounds.

Harris will report to the Pirates Thursday and will be given a chance to show what he can do before the season's close.

Francisco, who is to go to the Giants, is tied with him in number of games won. Gibson has lost nine.

THE STRONGEST EVIDENCE yet produced that Ernie Schaaf must be counted among the most promising candidates for a shot at the heavyweight title was his achievement of last night in New York, when he knocked out Victorio Campolo in the seventh round, his eighth k.o. in succession.

It takes a real fighter to give away so much weight, height and reach and then win so decisively over a man of Campolo's ability. Schaaf shapes up as tough game for the best of them. In his drive of eight straight knockouts, he appears to have earned at least another chance with Tommy Loughran if the latter beats Jack Gross next Tuesday.

Charley Retzlaff

WHETHER CHARLEY RETZLAFF is to continue his march toward the front ranks of the heavyweight brigade, or be shunted onto a sidetrack, at least temporarily, will be determined tonight when the Duluth Ripper faces his hardest test so far in a 10-round bout with Joe Sekyra in New York. Sekyra is better than any foeman Retzlaff has yet encountered. He is of a different type, too, a good boxer who moves fast and has a snappy left hand. Retzlaff has never met such a combination owning as much experience as Sekyra boasts, and there is no doubt that he is up against a tough contract. Still it is no easy matter to halt a fellow who has won 30 out of 34 fights by knockouts. Retzlaff has never been fully extended, and he must be conceded a chance to win over Sekyra until he has actually failed at the job.

Thompson to Risk Welterweight Title

BOSTON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Young Jack Thompson agreed to defend his welterweight title against Jimmy Braddock, Young Worcester southpaw, in a 15-round bout in the Boston Garden on October 23.

Matchmaker Billy Arnes declined to announce the terms accepted by the Chicago Negro champion, but admitted he had offered him a flat guarantee. Ray Alvis, Thompson's manager, recently quoted $30,000 as the price his boxer demanded for risking his title.

INCREASE your mileage, too, by using Amoco-Gas. Amoco-Gas burns completely without hard carbon deposit and does not corrode or choke up.

Between the points of your sparkplugs is a gap of but a fraction of an inch. The space between the points is not a matter of guesswork but the result of careful experiments by sparkplug manufacturers.

Any reduction of this space will cause improper combustion--reduce efficiency and increase oil and gasoline consumption.

Save your sparkplugs and improve your motor's performance by using Amoco-Gas always. Get better mileage--greater economy--lower repair bills--and lowest cost per mile.

How Wages of Stockholders Are Dropping

By B. C. FORBES

STOCKHOLDERS' WAGES are being cut right and left. Records compiled exclusively for this column show that 1,189 dividends have been stopped or cut or deferred this year.

B. C. Forbes

This contrasts with only 85 unfavorable dividend announcements during the first two-thirds of 1929, 106 in 1928 and 109 in the corresponding period of 1927.

Nor is that all. Only 487 companies have taken cheerful dividend action this year contrasted with 895 up to the end of August last year, 1,243 in 1929, 620 in 1928 and 651 in the first two-thirds of 1927.

FOR THE WHOLE of 1930 there were 1,482 favorable and only 1,008 unfavorable dividend declarations, while during 1929 the improved disbursements totaled 2,393 and the disappointing announcements only 154.

THE FOLLOWING tables give month by month comparisons of both favorable and unfavorable announcements since the end of 1926:

SINCE THE BEGINNING of the year there have been only nine favorable railway dividend declarations against 36 a year ago. This year there have been 42 railway dividends omitted or reduced or deferred, contrasted with only three disappointing announcements during the first two-thirds of last year and two the year before.

The following tables show the form taken by the favorable declarations this year and for the corresponding period of last year by industrial, public utility and railway companies:

| 1931 | Ind | P U | R R |

THE FOLLOWING tables summarize the unfavorable dividend announcements so far this year and the corresponding period of last year:

| 1931 | Ind | P U | R R |

| Omitted | 188 | 4 | 2 |
| Deferred | 116 | 5 | 0 |
| | 443 | 14 | 3 |

WHAT IS THE dividend outlook now?

Frankly, it can be described at best as only negatively encouraging, meaning that so many corporations have already curtailed their disbursements that fewer companies are left to make cuts.

All indications are that very important reductions will be made by railroads before the year ends. New York Central and New Haven are expected to act shortly. Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania are also likely, in Wall Street's opinion to reduce their payments.

INDEED, EVERY directorate would do well, under existing conditions, to exhibit the very maximum of confidence warranted by actual conditions rather than do the slightest thing avoidable to aggregate the already existing over-supply of pessimism.

Exhaustion Near for Fixed Trust Reserve Funds

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RESERVE FUNDS of a large number of the fixed investment trusts of the distributive type may be exhausted within the next year. Most of the distributive trusts have been compelled to dig deeply into their reserve funds to meet their first coupon payments for 1931. Unless there is a sudden change in business and financial conditions, the reserve funds will be drained with a few more payments.

The distributive trusts sell all their stock dividends and split-ups and distribute the proceeds to the shareholders. During 1929 and 1930 a major share of their distributions to shareholders was obtained from this source and the proceeds from cash dividends were a minor contribution to revenue.

Foreseeing the possibility of a period during which stock dividends and split-ups would be few, most of the distributive trusts were established with cash reserve funds in addition to the investment stocks held in their portfolios. The reserve funds were to be used to meet minimum coupon payments if earnings fell below a specified amount per share. When earnings exceed the minimum the full amount is distributed to shareholders.

Few Melons Cut

WITH BUSINESS IN a depressed state few corporations have cut melons this year. As a result the fixed trusts have had little income in addition to the cash dividends on their stocks. In most distributive trusts these cash dividends are smaller than the coupon rates. This has been responsible for payments to shareholders from reserve funds.

North American Trust Shares had a reserve fund of 60 cents a share. Its semi-annual coupons call for distributions of 30 cents each. To meet the June 30 coupon 16.41567 cents a share was drawn from the reserve. Unless there are unexpected developments, the reserve fund will be sufficient to meet the next two coupons, but the balance will fall short of meeting the payment due on December 31, 1932.

Corporate Trust Shares with a reserve fund of 50 cents a share and semi-annual coupons of 35 cents was compelled to draw on its reserve for 21¼ cents on June 30. At this rate the balance will meet the next coupon but will fall short of the June 30, 1932, payment.

Must Rebuild Reserves

AFTER THE EXHAUSTION of the reserve funds the distributive trusts will merely pay out whatever revenues they have. Even though the coupons have specified face values, there is no obligation for the trust to pay more than it earns after the reserve is exhausted.

In the future, however, when earnings exceed the coupon rate, the excess must be put back into the reserve funds until the original amount is restored. This will prevent the returns from fixed trusts reaching the large proportions of the past until the leading corporations enter another era of melon cutting.

On December 31, 1930, North American distributed 65.8 cents. On June 30, 1930, the distribution was $1.34 and on December 31, 1929, it was 51.4 cents. Corporate Trust distributed 42.02 cents on December 31, 1930, $1.316442 on June 30, 1930, and 80.1561 cents on December 31, 1929.

While the cumulative type of fixed trust, which retains stock dividends and split-ups in the portfolio, failed to make such sensational payments to shareholders in the past, its distributions have not been so sharply reduced during the present year. Most of the cumulative trusts do not have reserve funds since their earnings are more constant.

THE NAME ON YOUR CHECK

The check you sign and mail in payment of your bills makes a very definite impression on the person into whose hands it comes. That impression depends much upon the name of the bank on which the check is drawn, and the respect in which that name is held. There is a definite association between the name of the bank and the person whose signature appears at the bottom of the check. Checking accounts are always welcome at the Mellon National Bank, regardless of size . . . In addition to the checking privilege, depositors are invited to make use of the many other facilities maintained at the Bank for the transaction of financial business.

NEXT CONGRESS TO GET BANK MEASURES

Public Interest Attracted By Proposed Amendment To Federal Reserve Act

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

Author and Financial Editor Chicago Herald and Examiner

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Bills intended to safeguard bank deposits seem certain to be introduced in the next Congress. The proposal to amend the Federal Reserve Act so as to require each of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks to guarantee deposits of member banks in the public and savings departments.

In the five years 1926 to 1930 banks with $1,704,[illegible] doors. In the record of [illegible] cellence of the Federal Reserve System [illegible] that [illegible] 1930 [illegible] serve member banks.

URGES CORRECTION

Obviously [illegible] fect better [illegible] Federal Reserve [illegible].

A report [illegible] nomic policy [illegible] American Bankers Association says:

"We believe that the Federal Reserve banks should exercise more freely their rights to examine member banks and use their discretionary power to refuse rediscount facilities to banks indulging in objectionable banking methods."

CITES CRASH CAUSE

The same report [illegible] first premise [illegible] problem of meeting the bank failure situation.

"That improvable bank management in its broad aspects was an important cause in the bank failure situation of 1930."

Although each Federal Reserve bank has power to examine its member banks, it has no supervisory power to enforce correction of objectionable banking methods or improvement of bad management. All it can do if an examination discloses these evils is to point them out to officers of the member bank and urge correction. Experience has proved that its refusal of rediscount facilities is not certain to bring about the correction needed.

BENEFIT TO PUBLIC

But if each Federal Reserve bank had to guarantee deposits in member banks and had supervisory power to enforce good banking methods and good management, banking would be put on a higher, safer plane to the great benefit of the public.

The proposed amendment to the Federal Reserve Act would not guarantee member banks as institutions. It would merely guarantee the deposits.

If it became necessary to revoke a membership the Federal Reserve bank taking this action would at the same time order the member bank to liquidate. All depositors would be paid in full at once by the Federal Reserve bank out of its own capital.

STOCK MARKET DULL, TONE HEAVY

Trading Keeps to Extremely Narrow Range With Pivot Share Changes Fractional

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP). The stock market entered September today without showing any inclination of breaking out of the extremely narrow range in which it oscillated listlessly throughout August.

Dull August is not unusual, but in past years the market has usually developed a fairly pronounced trend after Labor Day. Emphatic opinions as to which way the market will turn are extremely rare at the moment, and traders are holding to the sidelines awaiting a clue.

Today's trading was about as dull as anytime experienced this year, and most of the so-called pivotal shares fluctuated within ranges of small fractions. The market recovered after sagging a little at the start, but selling of American Tobacco B, North American and Electric Autolite, all of which lost more than 1 points, imparted a slightly heavy tone after midday. Some of the oils eased fractionally. Wheeling and Lake Erie, which is very closely held, made one of its rare appearances, selling at 50 off 1 points from the last transaction. Yesterday, however, it was quoted 50 bid. About 51 per cent of the stock is held in trust for the Nickel Plate.

The extreme inactivity of the market throughout August and the complete absence of important selling even in the face of adverse news both domestic and foreign, has left considerable encouragement to bullishly inclined traders, but they mostly complain of getting any following in the market until the tenor of trade and corporate news changes. Such items in today's news as receiverships for Florida East Coast Railway and the Tri-Utilities Corporation scarcely provide the proper atmosphere to encourage bullish efforts. Nevertheless, those situations had been discounted so far in advance that the market accepted them nonchalantly.

Total sales in the stock exchange in August of roughly 25,000,000 shares were the smallest since August of 1924. The price average of 90 leading shares fluctuated within a range of only 7 points and showed a net gain for the month of little over 1 point.

The reduction of the Reichsbank discount rate to 8 per cent from 10 provided further evidence of the alleviation of the European crisis.

The weekly condition statement of Federal Reserve member banks in leading cities showed a gain of $37,000,000 in loans on securities, but the all other loans classification which includes commercial loans showed a decline of $46,000,000.

The preliminary estimate of last week's crude oil production giving effect [illegible] shutdown, indicated a tumble of more than 500,000 barrels in daily output.

COTTON LOWER AT OPENING

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP). Cotton opened barely steady today, 18 to 19 points lower under selling inspired by weakness in Liverpool and a favorable weather map.

Present weather conditions are thought likely to promote picking and an increase in movement which may be reflected in a corresponding increase in the hedge selling here, and according to some brokers, there was a little more Southern selling in the market this morning. It was in small offering but lowered bids and offerings were readily met with such absorption by trade buying and covering as the decline to steady the market during the early session. December contracts after selling off to 6.95 at the start, rallied to 7.02 with March sold up from 7.24 to 7.32, with the market comparatively quiet and steady at net declines of 13 to 14 points at the end of the first half hour.

The market was not particularly steady later in the morning on some further selling and covering. Late December sold off to 7.04 and March to 7.31, or within 11 points of yesterday's closing quotations. Prices were holding within a point or two of these figures at the general market, about 8 to 12 points net lower at midday.

If Man Scorned You Once, He'll Probably Do It Again

Here's a story stranger than the maddest movie. Once he scorned her. Cast her off to bring her nameless baby into the world deserted and alone while he hurried to marry another woman.

Today their paths have crossed once more. He has seen his little son. He wants to see her. He wants a divorce so he can marry her. But—

"I won't divorce you. I object to his wife. I'm not prejudiced to any other woman."

Shall Dora take the little son and go away with him, and by way, even if he can't marry her?

She loves him. He always loved him, in spite of his neglect and neglect. What would you do?

"Dear Sally:

"I have some plain problems for myself, but I would think more clearly now with a little help from you. You seem to be a wise old owl, so please tell me what is right and what is wrong.

"When I was 16 I fell madly in love with a boy. He was the handsomest, most wonderful boy in the world. I thought he loved me, too, but he married another girl. I was heartbroken, but I got over it. Then I met another boy. He was very nice, and I thought I loved him. I was so young then. I guess I was desperate, and afraid of losing him, and disgusted him. Anyway, when he said he couldn't see me any more and I realized my condition, I forced my way into his office. Well, he merely told me I was trying to put over a fast one, but that he would take me to a doctor to be sure.

"When he didn't call me in three days, I called him, and was informed that he had left town. A month later I went to his office again and demanded to know his whereabouts. The office girl told me he had sailed on his honeymoon for Europe and would remain there for months.

"Well, after my baby came my fear left me, and I went back to work. I was an entertainer. Of course, I could have pitched him through his father's office instead I hid away and prayed when I could get engagements.

"Now, after five years, I have found him again.

"I was on the road out West and accepted a dinner date, something I seldom do.

GIRL PERPLEXED

"He has been thrilled. But she won't lose the position she now enjoys and which she seems I could never fill should she divorce Teddy. He says he would willingly give up everything to have Buddie and me with him.

"Should I go away with him or is my big mistake not being willing to give up my babe? I am desperate. I do love him and he wants me. What shall I do?

DIONA

P.S. Leave me going up to see Dora. This man failed you the first time because he was a weakling and couldn't stand the pressure of responsibility and discomfort. Chances are he'll do it again. If you really love and want him, I don't really think two babies needs him make him prove his worth.

Leave him entirely on his own and you'll have an opportunity to judge what his own actions amount to.

HUSBAND'S PROBLEM

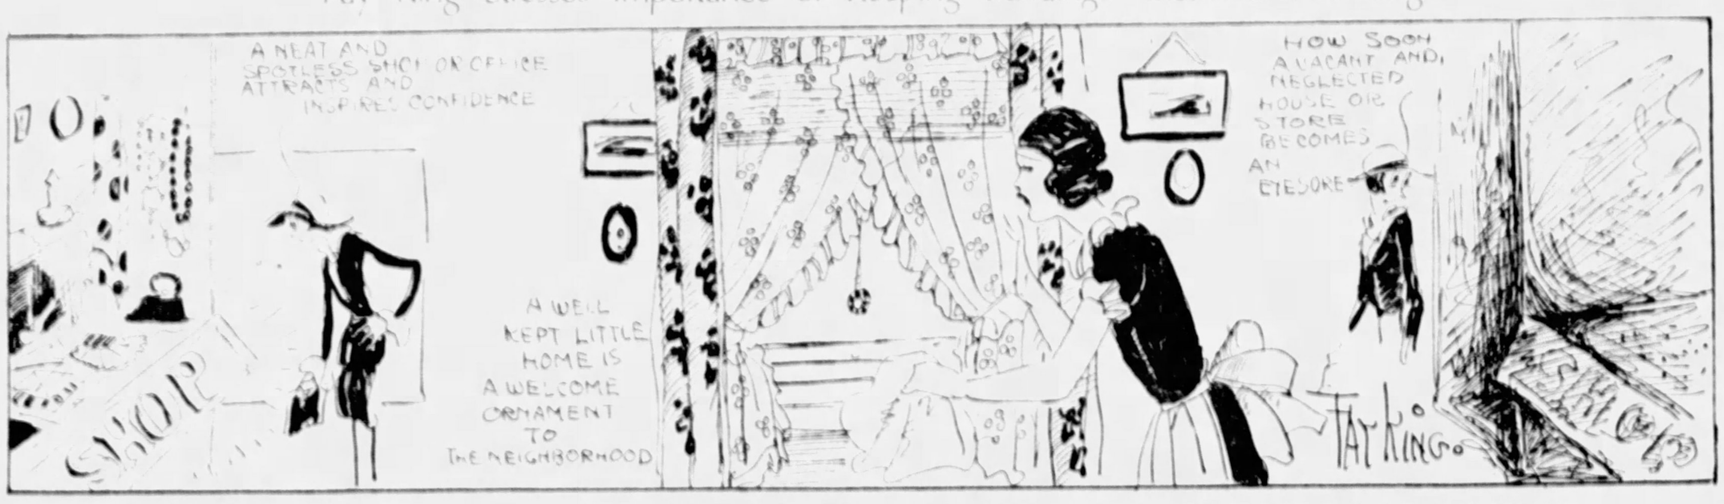
If he really loves you, if he's really willing to stand by you and your boy, if he's living a life with his present wife then he will face the racket and win through somehow.

And if he loves you but has not the gumption to fight for that love do you want him? And what use would he be to you if you got him?

Go on with your life as you have been going these five years and let him solve his problem the problem of his own spinelessness.

That's my advice. Would yours be different, Stranger?

Fay King Stresses Importance of Keeping Buildings Clean and Inviting



By FAY KING

Nothing impresses us with the importance of those small daily duties in one's surroundings as a vacant house or building.

We do not appreciate the washed window, the well-swept entrance or the polished brass until we see in what a short time of neglect they become opaque, grimy and dulled.

What had been an inspiring ornament to a neighborhood can so soon become a depressing eyesore.

That shop, that house, that window it is so pleasing to patronize, to visit, and to look in are the result of endless care and countless small tasks of cleaning and straightening.

A tiresome routine we sometimes think, but how great is the reward of such work when we compare it with neglect of these duties.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Junior Insists That Baby Be Called "Ruby Pearl"

As Junior gave voice to the names for his baby sister which he declared were the "swellest names you ever heard," he made a lordly gesture to Roderick.

Bring on yours, Rod," he said, but chuckingly I bade Roderick wait a minute. The swellest names of Junior's choice, Ruby Pearl, which he had said might be turned around to Pearl Ruby, had been a trifle too much for my risibles, and I felt that I needed an opportunity to brace myself against the next revelation.

Mine's got more class to it," Roderick said, quoting. I knew with the never-failing memory of children from some of the chatter in which Mary and Marion often indulge. And then with a flourish he intoned: "Call her Opal Violet."

Glad indeed was I that the conventions once having been observed, the boys plunged at once into a warm discussion of the respective merits of the names they had selected. They took their eyes from my face, giving me a much-needed opportunity to compose it into decorous sobriety and began arguing with such vehement gestures, though I noticed they scrupulously kept their voices from rising, that I unobtrusively rolled my tiny daughter's carriage to the other side of the veranda, where she lay as wide-eyed and placid as she almost always is when waking.

For our wee princess is preeminently a "good" baby which, by Katherine's definition, is one which sleeps the greater part of the time and cries only when hungry or uncomfortable.

Any baby in perfect health is a good baby until it is spoiled." Katherine has told me often, pardonably riding her special hobby. If you begin with a perfectly healthy baby when it is about two hours or thereabouts old, and give it systematic, regulated care, feed it by schedule, give it plenty of cool, not cold, water, keep it immaculately clean, and always comfortable, see that it is either outdoors or in a well-ventilated room and never take it up when it is crying for no other reason but to exercise its lungs, you'll have a good baby until you begin to let down on the regime. Sick babies, they're another story, the most pitiful things on earth."

But any woman less equable than Katherine would have been routed by my mother-in-law, who disputed almost foot to foot and eye to eye every step of her training. Flying to take up her small granddaughter every time she cried, urging more frequent feedings upon the plea that the child was starving to death, and fussing continually about the draughts to which she insisted the child was being exposed by Katherine's fresh-air program, which she predicted would give the baby her death of cold, she made of herself so nagging a nuisance that Dicky was seriously considering taking her away to the mountains for a trip.

She had been most militant, too, about the naming of the baby, and the memory of the diatribes she had uttered upon the subject made me welcome the diversion of the names the boys had selected, and which I personally felt should be labeled as anathema to every young father and mother.

"Ruby Pearl" "Opal Violet" They were being sounded repeatedly and truculently by my young son and his cousin, and I chuckled at the remembrance of one of the sanest women I ever knew possessed of a keen sense of humor, who has struggled through life under the handicap of the names Pearl Theresa, because a tired and indulgent mother had permitted an older brother and sister to name her. She had taught in the same school with me, and I could hear still her caustic comments upon that old indulgence.

"You can bet that brother and sister of mine never called one of their own anything like that," she used to say. "Theirs are all 'Mary' and 'Jane' and 'Elizabeth' and 'John' and 'Henry.' But just listen to what they handed me. 'Pearl Theresa!' It's the real reason I never married. Just as I'd get a nice young man really interested, he'd ask my name and then he'd ease out of the picture. He couldn't stand the thought of the wedding announcement in the papers with that name loose on the page."

We used to laugh merrily at her recital, but her experience had served to stiffen my objections against all "fancy" names, and I had determined that no child of mine should ever have anything save a good old-fashioned, pre-Revolutionary name.

There never had been any question about Junior's name. He was Richard Graham I. with his father's war record as an American ace, and his distinction as an illustrator to surround it with prestige. But about my small daughter's head the controversy had swirled since the day of her birth in a fashion only a little less energetic than the one going on now.

Dicky chivalrously had insisted that she be named Margaret after me, and after my little mother, long dead. My father assented quietly to this, although sometimes I wondered if he had any other idea in mind, he used to look so wistfully at me when the subject was mentioned. But Mother Graham militantly demanded that the baby be given the old family name of Harriet, belonging to her daughter herself, and to a number of the women of older generations in her family.

"Mums!" Junior broke in upon my reverie with eagerness. "Won't you say which of these names you like best?"

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pellagra Is Due to Diet Deficiency

A recent report of the United States Public Health Service makes it appear there is an increase in the prevalence of pellagra. This disease has been steadily advancing in this country as a factor of disability.

Dr Copeland

For many years the ailment has not been properly understood. Since it first attacks the skin it was considered a disease of the skin and was described as one of the forms of dermatitis.

The disease is not new, having been described as early as 1735. It was originally spoken of as pelle agra, a term meaning "rough skin."

In the United States it was not considered alarming until the present century. It is disturbing now because of the increasing number of deaths from the disease.

In Europe it is looked upon as a poor man's disease. Wherever met it is generally among persons indulging in a poorly balanced diet.

Until recently the actual cause of the disease was not known. At first it was believed to be due to an infection. The oldest theory was that it came from eating spoiled corn.

Dr. Goldberger and his associates in the Public Health Service, were the deepest students of the disease. They decided it is due to a deficiency in certain vitamins.

The disease is always found among persons living on a deficient or improper diet. One that is low in protein content and contains little or no vegetables and fresh fruits is likely to lead to trouble of this sort.

The condition is particularly common among farmers in the southern part of the United States. At certain times of the year these people depend on a diet of molasses and corn bread. They rarely indulge in such nutritious and protective elements as fresh fruits and vegetables.

Cases of pellagra have followed the ill-advised practice of dieting to reduce. Many stout persons and others not so stout but wishing to reduce, exclude important foods from their diet. Rapid loss of weight associated with abstinence from fresh fruit and vegetables and indulgence in 18 or 28-day fasts, are dangerous practices.

With the publication of information concerning this disease and the eating of those foods necessary for its prevention, it is hoped the prevalence of pellagra will soon be decreased.

Answers to Health Queries

F F W Q—How much should a girl of 15 5 feet 3½ inches tall weigh?

A—She should weight about 117 pounds.

D W G—My 13-year-old daughter who is 5 feet 3 inches tall weighs about 150 pounds—is well proportioned and very solid. However her circulation is very poor. Is she growing too fast would you advise some glandular medicine to stop her rapid growth?

A—If she is in good health her circulation will take care of itself. See your doctor for his advice.

Household Hints

Potatoes should steam dry before mashing.

Children's socks will fit better if they are folded together instead of rolled. Rolling stretches them out of shape and causes them to wrinkle and fail.

Plants can be kept fresh while the house is closed by placing in a zinc tub as many bricks as there are flower pots. Put enough water into the tub to cover the bricks and then stand a plant on each. The bricks will absorb enough water to keep the plants in condition for some weeks.

Kerosene and warm water will clean woodwork and hardwood floors beautifully no matter how dirty they may be.

When you get out the garden hose and find it has a few tiny leaks in it, try painting it on the outside with pliable roof paint; it will last quite a while longer.

Boiled and steamed puddings are very apt to break if turned out the minute they are taken from the saucepan. Let them stand for a few minutes to let some of the steam evaporate and they will turn out easily.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Guests at Home

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When I have guests for the evening, I have to take them through a part of the living room. Should I introduce them as we pass through or wait until they have removed their wraps?

2. When prizes are given at a party, is it correct to have them in view or must they be hidden?

3. After refreshments have been served on bridge tables, and the guests wish to sit and talk, should I attempt to clear the tables, or let them talk over soiled dishes?

G G

1. It always seems less awkward, in this circumstance, to wait for the introducing until the guests have removed their wraps and have returned to the living room.

2. It is best to keep the prizes out of view until they are awarded.

3. Remove the dishes before the after-refreshment conversation begins. There are few things more unattractive in the world than soiled dishes, and they should never be allowed to remain in sight as guests are talking. It won't take a minute to remove them.

Baby Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me to whom should baby announcements be sent? To those who were at the baby shower, or just to those who do not know of the expected one?

2. If you attended the shower and received an announcement, does that mean you are expected to bring another gift?

M M

1. Birth announcements are sent to the list of one's relatives and friends. It makes no difference whether or not the people were at the baby shower.

2. No.

The Bride's Gown

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In order to satisfy both parties, will you please settle a question? A says the bridegroom should buy the bride's gown, and B says the bride's mother should.

Hope to see your answer soon.

B F

B is right. One of the things the well-bred bride just mustn't do is to allow the groom to buy her wedding dress. If she does, she will be criticised, and she will deserve it.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Fat isn't a quality of beauty, neither are sharp bones anything to yodel about. The fashionable figure is the normal one, and that's why the string bean shape has to be filled out where padding are supposed to be. When the belt line was hoisted, upward from the hips, placed where it rightly belongs, the boyish figure would not qualify. Therefore all the little slimps are going in for chest development. It is achieved by exercises that pull hard on muscles of chest and arms, by cold applications every morning and massage with coco butter every night.

Ingredients of perfumes travel from far-away places. Plants of India, Ceylon, Mexico and Peru supply pungent odors of the forests. Cannes, that lovely city on the Riviera, is famous for rose, acracia, jasmine and neroli oils, gathered from gardens in her environments. So is Grasse, a near neighbor of Cannes. Nice offers violets. Nimes contributes thyme and rosemary. Attar of rose comes from Turkey, citron and orange oils from Sicily. Smart boys in France and in Uncle Sam's domain, with noses specially trained for this work, put these materials together into what they call bouquets. And women fight to buy them.

Extra Service

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

Because one of the men was a beginner, he was self-conscious about having a caddie watch him try to play golf. That was all right. His friend who played with him understood. But the friend had a caddie as usual.

The lad didn't pay enough attention to the first man to make him uncomfortable, but somehow he always knew where the ball had gone, although he was not working for this man at all. It was just a matter of a little courtesy. And the man for whom he was caddying noticed it, as did the other man, who thanked him at the end of the 18 holes.

Next day the second man asked for the same boy. He told the caddy master why, that the lad was efficient and courteous. "And," he added, "he gives just a little bit of extra service and that's good business for anybody."

And isn't it? And isn't it a good idea to instil into the mind of a growing child that idea that a full measure, or one which runs over even just a little, builds GOODWILL, and goodwill is the keystone of business?

The grocer who is always pleasantly willing to pick up a few articles for me at the drug-store next door to his store and deliver them along with the groceries, will continue to fill my orders, not because I often ask or want such service as I've mentioned, but because he is willing and eager to give EXTRA service, eager to do what he can to help me. It creates a good feeling, and making people feel good never got anyone in wrong.

Be sure you don't, however, in presenting the idea, let the child do extra things, make the extra generous little gesture in the hope of instant reward. Teach him that it is the lovely, courteous, generous thing to do, that in the final analysis it shows innate good breeding. For there is nothing so cheap as the individual who does unnecessary things for us in the hope of being tipped generously.

But giving the little extra service, the little extra time, doing a thing not well but VERY well, those are the marks by which you can always distinguish the successful REAL person.

SCHAAF STOPS CAMPOLO

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Victorio Campolo, tall tower of the Argentine, crumpled under the body smashes of blond Ernie Schaaf last night, sagged to a level where Ernie could reach his chin and finally passed out in the seventh round under the impact of a crushing left hook to the jaw.

Cut above and below the right eye, Campolo slowly settled to the floor to sit dazed and blinking in the bright ring lights after Schaaf nailed him solidly on the chin as they wrestled in a clinch. Referee Gunboat Smith, himself an old heavyweight of note, solemnly counted the giant Argentine out.

Fanchon Gets a Threatening Note From Tony

By Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER XVII.

For an instance Jennie Carstairs regretted wildly that she had ever asked Evelyn Howard to come to them. Much as she loved the girl, and she did love her very deeply, her son came first. Collin must always come first. That her own innocent act of generosity and duty, of atonement, she admitted, had been the cause of unhappiness to him, was very bitter to her. But there was nothing she could do. She said, gently, sorrowfully,

"Evelyn is my sister's child. Your cousin."

"I know." He rose from his chair in her small sitting room and paced about the floor, restless as one of the wild graceful creatures he had killed on his hunting trips. "I know. Don't think I haven't thought of it. Don't worry, mother. I'll see it through. Never tell her. She'll never guess. And—I'll go away after you are settled in town."

Jennie said nothing although her heart sank to lose him again. She had always suffered deeply, if silently, when he went from her on one of his vagabond trips. This time she would have Evelyn, she reminded herself. The daughter she had always wanted. But if she hadn't had Evelyn she would have been able to keep Collin beside her. She couldn't send Evelyn away, moreover, she cared too much for her to contemplate it. But Collin must go, for whom she cared far more. It was a hopeless tangle, a vicious circle.

For the rest of their stay Collin devoted himself lightly and casually to one of the pretty girls he had known for some time and who gave strong evidence of delight at his attentions.

SORRY FOR COLLIN

"Sally," said Jennie Carstairs to Fanchon, "Sally and Collin seem to be very devoted."

"She's awfully pretty," answered Fanchon, hating Sally Masters with all her soul.

Jennie looked at her sharply. But her face betrayed nothing. Perhaps it was all on Collin's side, then? If so, so much the better. But—poor Collin!

They returned to town late in September. Collin immersed himself in the business of his office, run for the most part as a rule by a very efficient partner. The partner came up to the apartment for dinner and promptly ranged himself with an increasing line of suitors for Miss Howard." Collin grumbled in his heart and was helpless. The apartment was lovely in those first days of fall. The move had been made without any upsetting or trouble, all of Mrs. Carstairs household problems were not problems at all; things ran as if all were a well oiled machine. Fanchon went to the shops, with Jennie to advise and instruct. She bought clothes, caring very little now that Collin would no longer be here to see. Jennie gave her a little trotteur coat of soft, dark Russian sable, gave her, too, an ermine evening wrap. "You couldn't" she explained "do it on your allowance. And these things you must have."

OBJECTS TO PHOTOS

In November "Evelyn Howard" made her bow to society. There was a tea for older people at the apartment and then a dinner dance at the Ritz for the youngsters. Her frocks were exquisite, one white, the other a faint flushed pink. Her flowers, orchids and gardenias, which Collin had sent. Other flower filled the house. Fanchon had fought against the newspaper photographs. But fought helplessly, as she could give no reason why her picture should not be in the paper.

Very late, the night of the dance, as the last guests were leaving, she was dancing with Collin. He held her closely, too closely. He said, hoarsely, looking down at the radiant face, the golden skin and the soft red mouth:

"I can't stand it, Evelyn."

"Collin!" she asked, on the breath of a whisper.

"I hadn't meant to speak. I swore I wouldn't," he muttered, "but I can't endure it. You're too lovely. Too dear. I love you too much. I'll clear out of town as soon as I can—"

"Ah—Collin . . ." she said again on the breath of a sigh. Looking down at her, he knew. He held her to him with a low, short laugh of triumph. But it was short lived. He remembered. They both remembered.

LOVES COLLIN

"Happy?" asked Mrs. Carstairs, as at dawn, she came into Fanchon's room where Emma was helping her to undress.

"It was perfect." Fanchon told her, and kissed her in gratitude and love.

She lay after Mrs. Carstairs and Emma had left, fingering the pearls—not such a small string after all . . . which had come to her from "Aunt Jennie and Collin." They slipped through her fingers, cold and heavy. They were very beautiful.

Pearls are for tears, she thought.

She loved Collin; and he loved her. He had told her. Happiness was like a flame burning through her and sorrow was like another flame. Between them she would be consumed. For it was impossible. He must go away and forget her; and she must go away, too, out of this Fools' Paradise which she had stolen.

NOTE FROM TONY

Two days later she was entering the apartment. A rather shabby thin man who had been hanging about near the doors, despite the doorman's stern injunction, watched her dismiss the car and walk toward the entrance. He darted toward her and slipped something in her hand and crossed Fifth avenue against the lights, running, weaving his way in and out of traffic, a policeman shouting after him.

Bewildered, Fanchon looked down at what her hand held. An envelope, small, addressed in pencil. She tore it open. Was it a begging letter?

"Come," said the note, without salutation, "to the above address. I will wait all day tomorrow. Otherwise I will go to Mrs. Carstairs."

The address was in Brooklyn. The signature read . . . "Tony."

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is en route to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs' affection wins her heart. At Southampton, awaiting the arrival of her son, Collin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously. He arrives and accuses Fanchon of being there under false pretenses. Collin objects to "Evelyn." Fanchon learns that Evelyn had indiscreet affairs with a naval officer and a native. Fanchon's sincerity in explaining that "her" indiscretion was only folly overcomes Collin's antagonism. A warm comradeship ensues and together they spend a happy summer. Collin and Fanchon love one another. He is prevented from confessing his love because of the blood carrier, and she because of her masquerade. Collin admits it to his mother.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Constable Is Badly Beaten By Deputy Sheriff

The Worm

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

"Not much change," I commented as I arrived at my Uncle Conrad's home in Stillwater.

"Considerable, for Stillwater—take our improved roads, for one thing."

"That's true enough, but road improvement is going on so rapidly all over the country that we seem to take it for granted."

Uncle Conrad and his wife, Aunt Emmy, had been father and mother to me through my boyhood. During the past 10 years I had been half a world away from Stillwater, helping to span wild ravines in strange countries with American bridges.

"Ah," I sighed restfully, sitting on uncle's wide veranda and regaling myself with Aunt Emmy's crullers and buttermilk, "this has all the foreign scenery looking like nothing at all."

It was then that I noticed a neat white cottage where had been the tumble-down old Keeler place.

"Old Mr. Keeler has fixed his place, I see," I observed.

"Mr. Keeler's place is somewhere in the beyond," uncle answered, "he's been dead six years or more—"

A smallish man came out of the house just then, a stranger to me.

"One of the Keeler heirs?" I asked.

The man crossed the road and came up toward the house. He was one of those quiet, unobstrusive types that one sees and forgets immediately.

"No," said my uncle, "no relation to the Keelers, he bought the property. His name is Worm."

"Worm?"

"Yes, Ezra Worm."

I watched him as he passed the house. He said a quiet "Good morning" and plodded on.

"Well," I said, "he would be wasting time turning around."

Uncle Conrad stared at me, trying to make sense to my remark.

"Irving Cobb said, once, something to the effect that it was a waste of time for a worm to turn because he was the same on both sides."

My uncle chuckled at this, and then he shook his head.

"Mr. Cobb didn't know Ezra Worm or he wouldn't have said that. Mr. Worm — the Mr. Worm who has just passed, did turn and he wasn't quite the same on the other side."

"Story?" I asked.

"Incident—fact, no fiction."

"Your neighbor, Mr. Ezra Worm, appeared to me to be a very mild mannered, meek sort of unobtrusive chap. Tell me about it, Uncle Conrad."

My uncle obliged.

According to the way he told it, Ezra Worm had worked for years over in Chatam as one of the dozen hired men on the big Waldron farm. Then he bought the Keeler place and paid cash for it, to the surprise of the few who knew him.

He came to the old place in the Fall. By Spring the house had a new roof, two verandas and was neatly painted. The yard was fixed up and the little cottage became an attractive place instead of an eyesore.

GOOD ARRANGEMENT

Ezra Worm, it seems, was a handy man around the place as well as an experienced farmer, for he lived alone and the few who entered his home reported that it was painted and papered inside and as neat as wax. But when Spring came with the ploughing and planting to do, Mr. Worm found it too much of a task to add housekeeping duties to his farming. He looked about and engaged Mrs. Myrtle Potter as housekeeper — Mrs. Potter being a rather buxom and very able widow of around thirty.

This seemed to be a satisfactory arrangement to everyone except Seth Harlow. Seth considered himself to be one of the "big" men of Stillwater. He owned a thriving general store and he was also tax collector and on the board of assessors.

Seth had been casting longing eyes at Myrtle Potter for some years, being a widower and tired of that state of affairs. Seth didn't dare say anything to Myrtle, personally, so he got his married sister, Mrs. Holmes, to go to Mrs. Porter and protest in a mild, neighborly sort of way, about this new arrangement.

Mrs. Holmes reported to her brother that Myrtle was obstinate. She didn't care to go into details.

Seth Harlow saw Ezra Worm's farm thrive. He saw the Widow Potter seemingly quite happy and comfortable and he longed more and more to marry Myrtle. He went so far as to tell her this, but she answered that she was satisfied the way things were.

Seth Harlow decided to make Ezra Worm a sort of laughing stock, to make him uncomfortable and to drive him out. It was Seth who started calling Ezra the "Worm."

When the county decided to improve the road and straighten it, Seth saw a chance to annoy the Worm. He secretly suggested that the road be straightened to cut through Ezra Worm's corn field.

Ezra protested, but the county took the land and Seth, as one of the assessors, assessed the damages at $50, which wasn't a quarter of the value.

Seth took occasion to make fun of Ezra. Especially did he do this when there were a number of villagers in the store.

For example, when half a dozen were in the store and Myrtle came to get some provisions, Seth asked, in a loud voice, how the "Worm" was "crawlin' along these days."

"He's paying his bills and mindin' his business," Myrtle answered.

This got a laugh.

"He's a poor specimen of manhood," Seth retorted, angrily, "and a disgrace to th' community. I should think you'd rather work for a real man instead of a human worm, Myrtle."

Myrtle said nothing.

"Wait until he gets his tax bill," chuckled Seth.

When the tax bill arrived Myrtle saw that Ezra was disturbed.

"They're sort of rubbin' it in," Ezra said. "They took a corner of my corn field for the new road and still tax me for the property."

"I suppose you propose to pay it and say nothin'?" Myrtle asked.

"I'll see."

Myrtle was out of patience and disgusted. She was getting fond of Ezra Worm until this came up. It seemed to her that Seth was right about him—he wasn't much of a man.

Ezra dropped into Seth's store.

EZRA PAYS TAXES

"How do you explain takin' my land and then taxing me for it?" he asked.

"You got th' old road, didn't you?"

"No."

"It's yours -take it," and Seth winked at some of the men who laughed at this.

"The county and state may take property for roads, but it can't swap property nor force a man to buy property. I shan't pay that tax," Ezra said.

"Suit yourself, Worm," Seth said, with emphasis on the name, "if th' taxes ain't paid we sell th' place."

Ezra Worm left without more talk. Seth related this to Myrtle the next day and she was more disgusted with Ezra than ever.

When Ezra didn't pay his full taxes and the time had elapsed, the customary notice of sale for taxes appeared. He paid, then, and on his check was written, "Paid under protest."

Every Wednesday night Seth would drive to Chatham and buy goods for his general store and stay all night and come back about daybreak with his truck.

It was in the midst of the summer resort season when 20 or more natives had summer boarders and Seth's business was at its best that Seth got his surprise.

The turn into the new stretch of road over the land taken from Ezra Worm was barred with giant chains, padlocked to rings in stone posts. There was no way getting through.

Seth left his truck and walked down to Ezra's place.

"Unfasten them chains, Worm, or I'll have you in jail!" he shouted.

"Try it," suggested Ezra calmly.

Myrtle came to see what had happened. She was amazed and happy, and laughed.

"I'll have them chains cut down and have you in jail, too," Seth yelled.

SETH RETURNS MONEY

"That's my property. I paid taxes on it—if you step a foot on it I'll have you arrested for trespass."

"I'm the town constable, who'll arrest me?" bellowed Seth.

"I'm a deputy sheriff, got appointed yesterday. I guess I can do a pretty good job at arrestin'," Ezra murmured mildly.

Seth decided that it was time to frighten Ezra and show Myrtle who was the real man. He stepped up and punched Ezra Worm on the nose.

"You came on my property and attacked me," Ezra said, "and I've got to protect myself."

With that he started for Seth, chased him into a corner and beat him unmercifully.

"Now," Ezra said, "go 'round by the old road."

"It's washed out—I can't," Seth mumbled between cut lips and loose teeth.

"Too bad," Ezra remarked and started to return to his work.

"Look here," said Myrtle, going to Seth, "you advance Ezra what you took from him in unjust taxes and I bet he'll let you through—"

Ezra strode over to Myrtle.

"Look here, Myrtle," he said, "I don't like to have you wasting time talking with that fool—I'm plannin' to marry you tomorrow, you know."

"You are? Oh, Ezra!"

Seth handed over the money, Ezra unlocked the chains and Seth went his chastened way.

"So you see," my Uncle Conrad said, finishing his narrative, "that this Irving Cobb you tell about was wrong concernin' a worm bein' th' same on both sides. When Ezra Worm turned he was some different on his other side!"

The New Firearms Law

It Will Be Valuable If It Does No More Than Keep Pistols Out of the Hands of Boys.

There are not a few well-intentioned persons who think the best way to fight criminals is for honest citizens to carry pistols or have pistols around the house, easily accessible and ready for use at a moment's notice.

These persons are opposed to legislation which interferes with the right to buy or own firearms. They will not like the new law effective today which regulates the sale and possession of such weapons.

A speaker at a recent convention of police officers asserted that legislation similar to Pennsylvania's new firearms law had been followed by a decrease in crimes of violence elsewhere, and we are hopeful that our new statute will produce that result.

It must be admitted that it will be easy enough for determined criminals to obtain pistols surreptitiously, notwithstanding the law.

Even though it should not have the effect of disarming bandits, however, it will prove of value if it does no more than keep firearms out of the hands of boys.

The red tape and the license fee required under the new system will tend to dissuade many persons from purchasing or possessing weapons. And that, in turn, should make for a decrease in such deplorable cases as that heard in Morals Court yesterday in which a boy shot a playmate with his mother's revolver.

Goodness only knows how many accidental killings and suicides would be avoided if people did not keep pistols. They certainly outnumber very greatly the cases in which burglars or bandits have been shot by honest citizens.

High Hopes Heartlessly Hi-jacked

As if the villainous Prohibition were not enough for the poor girl to contend with, Prospy faces new perils.

From the deep wood of Doubt out pops "Wage Reductions," a false economic move to shift the woes of the depression from those best able to bear them to those who have suffered about enough.

Prospy can expect little help from the Hero and his little dog, Hope.

If SOME ONE would do SOMETHING about the villain and his aides "Loot," "Boot," "Snoop" and "Shoot," Prospy's chances of escape would be enhanced.

For after all, some one may turn up in the next picture with a big game gun and slay the Lion. And then, again, some one MAY NOT.

Prohibition, with his charmed life, and his bodyguard in the left foreground, seem immune from all harm.

This is the age of guessing games. Try your hand at it.

Will the smile be on the Lion or the Lady in the next picture?

Read the answer here tomorrow.

Unless Statute Conforms To Custom, It Is No Law!

By BRAND WHITLOCK

(From the "Little Green Shutter," by Brand Whitlock, published by D. Appleton & Co.)

(Copyright, 1931, by Brand Whitlock.)

IN the course of the discussion about laws and their enforcement that has gone on continually in our land ever since the adoption of prohibition, I have often called to mind a picturesque phrase uttered by Mirabeau in a speech in the Constituent Assembly of 1789. He had lost patience with the pedantry and dogmatism of the doctrinaires and metaphysicians in that body, and burst out with: "We are not a savage tribe arriving on the banks of the Orinoco to found a new society. We are an old nation too old, perhaps—with pre-existing laws, pre-existing customs, and a pre-existing civilization."

The same sort of doctrinaires, as sincere no doubt as the metaphysicians of 1789, and differing from them only in the panacea they offer, have got us in their clutches and propose to make us all over on their own model.

They innocently believe in what Burke called the "mysterious virtue of wax and parchment," and are possessed by the amazing superstition that anything and everything can be done by what they call law.

Whenever anything goes wrong, whenever anything happens that annoys us or offends our prejudices, we commonly exclaim: "There ought to be a law against it!"

OUR moral pedants proceed upon the theory that anything they wish may be automatically accomplished by the enactment of a statute. They thought that, if they could only get the Constitution amended so as to enable Congress to enact a statute, they could prohibit alcohol.

BUT THEY COULDN'T PROHIBIT ALCOHOL ANY MORE THAN THEY COULD PROHIBIT ACID, OR DEW, OR RAIN, OR SNOW, OR ICE.

All they could do was to annihilate, by a stroke of the pen, the existing statutes regulating the distribution and consumption of alcohol, and decree that it should no longer be distributed or consumed. And as they could NOT destroy the demand for it, alcohol continued to be distributed though under another system and in a different way.

IT IS, ALAS, THE VERY WORST SYSTEM THAT COULD BE IMAGINED.

The demand for spirits remains as widespread and keen as ever, and enormous profits are offered to those who will take the increased risks of supplying it.

A NEW and formidable industry is founded, and a new order of crime created. And since our foreign critics fail to distinguish between the old, private, individual crimes that are characteristic of all countries, and the new, public and social crimes that prohibition has made possible and inevitable in ours, the BRIGANDAGE THAT DISGRACES OUR CITIES GIVES US ABROAD THE SINISTER REPUTATION OF BEING THE MOST LAWLESS NATION IN THE WORLD.

We seem to have more law because we have more statutes, and we have more statutes because we have more parliaments; other countries have only one, whilst we have 49, running full blast all the time.

Numerous acts that are considered innocent in all other civilized countries in the world, are made criminal in America.

There are certain acts which the conscience of mankind, the collective opinion of all civilized nations, condemn as wrong.

They are wrong in and of themselves—mal in se, as the lawyers call them. There is no great difficulty in enforcing laws that enact penalties for deeds of this kind. All men are agreed about them, and are united in a common effort to punish those who commit them.

EVEN those charged with having committed these offences do not deny the justice of the law, they merely deny their culpability, or advance some excuse to make their case an exception to the general rule. That is humanity in general is unanimous, or practically unanimous, in upholding the codes that define these offences and exact penalties for their commission.

These enactments are the record of the customary rules recognized by the community as binding. In the good old phrase they are the law of the land, and, so far as respect for the law of the land is concerned, the AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE AS LAW-ABIDING AS ANY IN THE WORLD.

But, since we have 49 parliaments constantly functioning, and since, as the old parliamentarian said, whenever the commons have nothing else to do they can always make a new crime, we have a mass of statutory enactment that is not a part of the law of the land, enactments that vast sections of the population DO NOT RESPECT and WILL NOT OBEY, and that CANNOT BE ENFORCED.

They do not respect these enactments because they know that the deeds declared to be wrong are not wrong, and it is impossible by the use of force, however strong or violent, to impose upon the moral sense of the people a feeling that a given act is wrong just because those whose prejudices it offends have been able to induce a legislature to enact it into what is called a "law."

IT is not a law, in a democracy at least, or in any other form of government for that matter, UNLESS IT HAS THE SANCTION OF THE PEOPLE, IS IMPLICIT IN THEIR LIVES, AND HAS ITS ROOTS DEEP DOWN IN THEIR HABITS AND CUSTOMS.

Custom is the supreme law in all communities, civilized or savage, and UNLESS THE STATUTE CONFORMS TO THE CUSTOM IT IS NO LAW, that is, it is not the law of the land. A criminal statute that seeks to regulate personal habits will not work unless it has the saction of practically all of the people, and is therefore in harmony with the public opinion.

Men do not fear the penalties of the law half as much as they fear public opinion, which for them is the opinion of their neighbors; the statute indeed may disapprove their conduct, but unless their neighbors disapprove it, then, so far as that community is concerned, it is a dead letter.

Juries will not convict, and neighbors will not play the spy and informer, for among men of decency and honor this is one of the things that are SIMPLY NOT DONE. That this truth is beginning to find recognition was shown when it was announced that a fund of $50,000,000 was to be raised for the purpose of conducting an "educational campaign," extending over a period of 10 years, in favor of prohibition.

If the people believed in the prohibitory statutes, there would have been no insuperable difficulty in enforcing them, and no necessity for an educational campaign.

The New Pumping Plant

Is Gratifying to Learn It Will Be Well Above the Flood Danger Mark.

The cornerstone of the new pumping station at Brilliant, of primary unit of the municipal water system, will be laid ...morrow with appropriate ceremonies.

It is to replace a 52-year-old plant which is neither as ...cient nor as large as is desirable.

Electricity in the new plant will take the place of the ...m power used in the old. The new plant will be able to ...y nearly 60,000,000 gallons of water per day in excess ...present requirements.

...ut there is still another reason why the citizens may hail ...satisfaction the construction of the new plant. It will be ...et higher above the flood danger line than the old one.

What this means can be judged from the fact that if the ...oot flood of 1907 had risen just a few inches more it would ... put the Brilliant Pumping Station out of business and ... deprived a large part of the city of its customary water ...y for domestic, industrial and fire protection purposes. The Flood Commission of Pittsburgh has predicted that ...city will be visited some time with a 40-foot flood. It is ...fying that the new pumping station will not be en...ered.

Solicitation by Police

...ey Should Not Ask the Public to Buy Tickets Because It Looks Too Much Like Extortion.

Two police officers at Glassport have been suspended from ... by the Burgess for stopping motorists on the highway ...sking them to buy tickets for a benefit dance to be held ... charitable purpose.

The Burgess says they have violated a provision of the ...wate Motor Code which forbids the stopping of motorists by ...dicitors.

Even though there were no such provision in the code, ...wever, it is desirable that policemen should refrain from ...eing the public to buy tickets, even for a charity benefit.

For the police to solicit money for any purpose seems too ...ch like extortion. Many people are afraid not to con...ute, whether they wish to or not. They fear that if they ...se they will incur the enmity of the police and in conse...ience may be subjected to annoyance or may not receive the ...olice protection to which they are entitled.

This fear may be, and probably is unwarranted. Nevertheless, it exists, and leads to payments by small merchants and ...thers—to promote the Pittsburgh police field day, for example—who in their secret hearts give very grudgingly and would not give at all if they were sure they would not suffer in consequence.

This applies to firemen, too.

To avoid every suspicion of extortion city employes having to do with the public safety should avoid asking the public for contributions.

The Teachers' Institute

Those Who Give Careful Attention to the Speakers Will Get Something Beneficial from Them.

The eighty first annual session of the Allegheny County Teachers' Institute commenced yesterday.

There is a tendency in some quarters to condemn teachers' institutes as of little or no value. But that is not true of the Allegheny County Institute.

Supt. Dickey, of the county schools, always has something worth while at these yearly gatherings.

Teachers who pay careful attention to the speakers are sure to derive benefit from them.

Juvenile Naturalists

Their Study of Animals and Plants Will Make Their Lives Richer and Fuller.

The Sun-Telegraph published yesterday pictures of some of the young members of the Naturalists' Club and their collections of insects at Carnegie Museum.

It is interesting to know that there is such a club. It is to be hoped it will attract many boys.

The study of animal and plants by the juvenile naturalists will make their lives richer and fuller. Long after they have ceased to collect butterflies and the like they will contiue to reap the benefit in the pleasure and understanding with which they will see and perceive the works of nature.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

When a Man Has "It"

Sometimes I think that more men think women are obsessed with "IT" because men are less self-conscious than women.

* * *

Most men suppose that just being a MAN is quite sufficient charm in itself. Like being a blonde or a certain Angora or a brand new baby.

* * *

When it comes to doing the charming, most men leave all the heavy work to women. It never occurs to a man to wonder if his cravat is becoming, or if his nose is shiny. Unless he is a professional woman-tamer, he never even stops to ask himself whether he has "IT" or not. The whole question in his mind is whether or not the woman interests HIM. Once that is settled, it's all over but ordering the flowers and sending her the glad news.

Self-contentment is a wonderful thing! It's a pity that more women are not filled with that sublime self-complacency which is the basis of all savoir faire and personal magnetism.

* * *

It is only when a man's self-confidence sours and turns into conceit that he becomes self-conscious and loses all his "IT." For a little vanity makes a woman more confident—but it makes a man positively laughable.

* * *

What is masculine "IT," anyway? What makes a man attractive to women?

* * *

No woman ever loves a man just because he is good or intelligent or handsome or successful—or even just because he is in love with her. She may MARRY him for some of these things—but not one of them would make her head whirl dizzily and her heart leap up into her throat at the sound of his motor-horn under her window.

"IT" in a man, is manner, poise, responsiveness—the light of understanding in the eye, the instinctive knowledge of how to make love to a woman, without either yawning with listlessness or crushing out her ideals with caveman tactics.

* * *

Many a plain, bald middle-aged man has more "IT" than a conceited young Adonis. Many a little shrimp, who understands women, has more charm for the girls than a six-foot Apollo, all brawn and protoplasm.

* * *

But, almost any man can have "IT" who has enough intelligence and no conceit!

Isn't It So?

Some women take up music for the purpose of beating time.

There would be more incentive to success if successful men seemed to enjoy life more.

There's one way you can realize the kids are home from college. The car's gone.

It isn't long after we begin riding a wild, bucking hobby until it will stand without hitching.

The horn of plenty of old days was all right, but the automobile horn appears more popular now.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Many believe the Palace, only all vaudeville theater in town and one of three in the entire nation, is blazing the trail for a vaudeville revival. The Sunday "celebrity nights" at the Palace bring the biggest and perhaps most representative audience on the Rialto.

The Palace has been the class variety house—the hope of every pitchwarmer—for 18 years. That vaudeville is not entirely dead is proved there. When it presents high class bills it is invariably packed. The drawback is that due to the scarcity of good acts bills are repetitious.

The Palace has been the proving ground of talent and also the graduating field for many artists to legitimate and motion picture triumphs. The tentacles of vaudeville have reached out to almost every high class theatrical endeavor.

It has spawned so many stars in other branches that it has become a shell with scarcely a handful of strictly vaudeville headliners. Vaudeville did not fight and permitted its ranks to be looted. It now pays the penalty in almost total extinction.

In the past few years it has secured headliners by bridging gaps between productions for favored stars. Bernhardt and Ethel Barrymore have appeared at the Palace along with hundreds of others. The only notable exception is Al Jolson, who has been offered as high as $10,000 a week.

The Palace never deviated from eight acts twice a day, save lately it gives three performances on Sunday. On the opening bill there appeared among others Ed Wynn, Taylor Holmes and Ota Gygi. Perhaps the three most popular Palace performers today are Phil Baker, Lou Holz and Frank Fay.

Ten years ago there were nine high class all-vaudeville playhouses in the greater city. Most went motion picture. Others were experimental grounds for everything from Shakespeare to marionette shows. A vaudeville comeback necessitates a new chain of theaters. And I hear a syndicate is forming.

* * *

A public librarian tells me the younger generation shows little interest in O. Henry. Characters he wrote about have vanished—the professional Southerner, garrulous boarding house keeper, sweat shop owner, fighting Irishman, pretty and unsophisticated waitress, clothing store puller-in, horse cars and boarding house front porches.

* * *

About the only district left with boarding houses is Brooklyn. They are mostly old time brick mansions of another day with wide porches and comfortable lawns—pensive citadels that bespeak prunes for breakfast and rice pudding for dinner.

* * *

When I came to New York the boarding house area spread on West 57th street, solidly lined with brown stones from 8th avenue to the Hudson. My quarters was a top hall room in an establishment called "The Aldine" and after dinner we luxuriated in the splendor of one of those early American parlors which displayed decorative horrors including fireside conch shells and a red carpeted brick door stop. All of us were inwardly quite miserable while outwardly expressing a bourgeois defensive complex that This Was Life.

* * *

I remember a down the hall neighbor about whom was whispered: "He is writing a play." Through a slit in the door I saw him at all hours, his hair tousled and hands and bare arms spotted with the scurf of dried ink. His pen seemed always scratching on long sheets of ruled foolscap. And then one day he vanished. Dramatic columns announced he sold a play. I sat in the balcony at the opening and thought it a masterpiece. But it ran only a week. The last time I saw him he was, ironically enough, selling tickets in a Pelham movie.

* * *

Incidentally, this was my first "opening night" on Broadway. The theater was the old Herald Square. Among critics were "Stuffy" Davis in a blue sweater, Lawrence Reamer, Rennold Wolf and Alan Dale. The only other critic of the present crop I recall seeing was Kelcey Allen. I also got my first peek at Diamond Jim Brady.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I keep it in a quiet corner of the room, under the picture of a face I loved.

It is a small, round, earthen jar, black with age, tightly sealed save for two spouts. Nobody knows what it is when first they see it. I did not know. It was brought to me by a seafaring man. He had found it in Peru . . . not in the regular shops but in a native hut, amongst a pile of rubbish.

The people in the house—they were poor Indians—were disturbed when he found it. They looked at each other strangely, a little fearfully. But he got it out of them at last. The thing had been found in an old grave, a very old grave, deep in the recesses of the hills. There were many graves there—of a strange people who had passed that way long ago. The Indians did not know who these people were. But the sailor man guessed . . marveling . . feeling his flesh creep a bit as he touched the old, blackened clay. Incas?

There were many graves, they repeated. In nearly all the graves there were jars like this. But the vessels themselves were no great novelty. It was still the custom to place jars like these with the dead. Tear jars, they were . . . so that the dead might carry with them, on their darkened trail, a token from the love that longed to follow.

Tear jars, in Inca graves. How old? How many years since some brown, savage hand worked on that piece of clay? How many years since some poor, savage heart stored there its grief?

So many years. And so much happening in those years. So much of pain and loss. Wars, conquests, wealth that still hangs its glittering mirage above human history—then desolation blotting out the record of it all. Great cities going back into the sand. A lizard scuttling where a jeweled throne had stood. And then more wars—more marching feet—new cities springing from the ashes of the old—new wisdom and new riches and new night.

But always—love.

Always love—thatching a hut in the jungle, moving with pomp through a palace . . . dreaming, wrapt in sheep skins, on some lonely plain . . . laughing by a cradle . . . weeping by a grave.

Everything else changing. Nations changing. Customs changing. Power changing. Even the face of the earth changing. Love, alone, not changing. Love always the same. Always love, going on and on, through every trail of life, trying even to follow the strange dark trail of death. Always love, persisting in spite of all the penalties of life, in spite of all the pangs of death. Everything else perishing beneath penalties and pangs . . . LOVE, ALONE PERSISTING.

Thousands of years between those tears which filled this clay—and mine. But love links them all. Love survives them all. Then shall we fear a miracle like this will last no longer than our fragile flesh and bone?

WORDS OF THE WISE

A man's collective dispositions constitute his character.
—Atwater.

Religion is not only useful to civil society, but fundamental to its very birth and constitution.
—Bentley.

Too great confidence in success is the likeliest to prevent it; because it hinders us from making the best use of advantages which we enjoy.—Atterbury.

That man lives twice who lives the first life well.—Herrick.

The best way to keep good acts in memory is to refresh them with new.—Bacon.

Censure and criticism never hurt anybody. If false, they can't hurt you unless you are wanting in manly character; and if true, they show a man his weak points and forewarn him against failure and trouble.—Gladstone.
